Republican National Convention Will Be Held In Chicago In June

Report Chicago Is Now Planning To Go After Democratic Convention

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Chicago rejoiced today over its selection as the site of the 1932 Republican National Convention.

While civic leaders predicted as much as a $10,000,000 business increase will flow from the G. O. P. presidential conclave, efforts were renewed and intensified to win for Chicago the 1932 Democratic convention, as well.

Hurley Is Praised

Praising the work of Edward N. Hurley who led the successful campaign which resulted in yesterday's action of the Republican National committee in choosing Chicago as the convention site, John L. Coyne, vice-president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, declared:

"We also feel certain that Mr. Hurley and his committee will be equally successful in landing the Democratic convention when they put our invitation before the national committee of that body on January 9."

Conference In Capital Ends In Lines Going Out For Vare's Assistance

PINCHOT TRYING TO SAVE PROGRAM

Adjournment Today Will Send Legislators Home Till After Christmas

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—Rumors of another special session of the legislature to build a relief structure embodying portions of Gov. Gifford Pinchot's shattered program and portions of the "opposition" proposals were wafted about Capitol Hill today in the wake of a conference between organization and administration leaders that dragged into the early hours of this morning.

The meeting, held in a local hotel, was attended by Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer and chairman of the Republican State Committee, Senators Scott, McClure and Baldwin, representatives Reed and Talbot, and Secretary of State A. Boyd Hamilton.

The conferees declined to comment on whether a new relief program, acceptable to both factions, had been agreed upon or whether a new session would be called.

Appeals To Vare

When the meeting broke up this morning, it was strongly reported that James M. Hazlett, Philadelphia Republican chieftain, would seek the aid of William S. Vare in smoothing out differences in the Philadelphia

Congress Asserts Debt Settlements Most Generous In History

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—The Pennsylvania delegation in the House today adopted a resolution expressing confidence in President Hoover.

Rep. McFadden (R) of Pennsylvania, retiring chairman of the banking and currency committee, who bitterly assailed the president in the House yesterday was present.

The delegation also voted to support the Hoover moratorium proposal in the House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Convinced American debt settlements with European nations are the most generous in history, a militant congress today moved to suppress the propaganda of international bankers for revision or cancellation.

For the first time in years leading Republican and Democratic senators stood shoulder to shoulder on American foreign policy, united in a demand that the debts be paid.

Stamp Out Cancellation

With Secretary of State Stimson before the Ways and Means committee to plead for approval of the Hoover one-year moratorium, the effort to stamp out all proposals for cancellation was renewed in both branches.

The administration expects ratification of the moratorium. Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills said that 276 members of the house and 68 senators had pledged support.

There is a strong likelihood that, in event of passage, congress will attach a "rider" to the ratification resolution flatly declaring opposition to any further concessions.

The house was aroused by the seriousness of charges made by Rep. McFadden (R) of Pennsylvania. He characterized Mr. Hoover's moratorium as an "infamous proposal" that Mistake made in the original measure providing the appropriation of a million and a half dollars for the Pymatuning dam project, has now been corrected by state legislature. The measure reappropriating the fund for work in connection with actual construction of the dam, has been passed by the legislature, and was yesterday signed by Governor Pinchot. There is nothing in the way of entire completion of the project and it is expected that plans will be immediately made for carrying on. Work is in progress on construction of the actual dam.

Congress Has Done "Little"

Seventy-Second Congress Is Handicapped By "Do Nothing" Policy

HOLIDAY RECESS IS ANTICIPATED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The seventy-second congress, handicapped by a "do nothing" policy in both parties, will adjourn for the Christmas recess without ratifying the war debt moratorium, revising taxation, touching the tariff or providing relief for the unemployed, it was apparent today.

Lack of legislative achievement prior to the holidays will be due in no small measure to the failure of the Democrats to have a legislative program ready when they took control of the house. At the same time, the Republican senate has been paralyzed by a battle over a president pro-tem.

The president's debt moratorium will be ratified by the house late this week, but before the senate can approve it, congress will quit for its holiday.

To Reduce Expenses.

The Democrats were confronted with the responsibility of initiating a program of fiscal legislation, as congressional policy committees, the only decision reached was an agreement to reduce governmental expenditures. All decisions on tariff and taxation were postponed, while

Relief Fund Over Five Thousand Mark

The fund of the School Division of the Mayor' Relief committee was bringing their contribution to the office of City Treasurer L. W. Mc-

Additional contributions received by the Mayor's Relief Committee during the past twenty-four hours, brought the total to $5,038.23, assuring the committee that there will be enough money ahead to keep the relief plans going for some time yet.

The largest contribution turned in was that from the oratorio given Monday evening under the auspices of the Music Club which netted $66.89. Another check received was that of $35 from Nest 146, Polish Falcons, while the New Castle Printing Pressmen gave $10.

The fund of the School Division of the Mayor' Relief committee was swelled to $2,416.62 by the contribution of $550.75 which was raised by the school teachers of the city from the play, "Mrs. Bumstead Leigh" given several weeks ago.

This insures the school division of enough money with which to provide lunches, clothing if needed and other assistance for the children in the school Last year approximately $1,800 was raised for the school fund, all but about $20 of this amount being used last winter.

Those who wish to contribute to the Mayor's Relief Fund may use the accompanying blank, mailing or bringing their contribution to the office of City Treasurer, L. W. McClung, treasurer of the fund.

would "unlawfully dissipate" the country's resources.

Compel Nations To Pay

He termed Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and close friend of President Hoover, as "the colonel house" of the administration and a secret emissary of New York International bankers.

Senator Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, staunch Hoover supporter, electrified the senate with his demand that America compel foreign nations to pay their debts.

Denouncing propaganda spread by international bankers for cancellation, Reed said:

"To ask that these private debts should have priority over intergovernment debts is outrageous effontery."

Opposing Mr. Hoover's request for recreation of the debt funding commission, Reed said:

"We have cancelled all we are going to cancel. It is within the capacity of Europe to pay us what they owe and it would be imbecility for us to cancel the debts while that fact remains."

Another Flare-Up.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Bitter charges made by Rep. Louis T. McFadden (R) of Pennsylvania against the motives of President Hoover in arranging the German moratorium, caused another flare-up today when the ways and means committee of the house assembled to hear Secretary of State Stimson's testimony concerning the debt delay.

Rep. Treadway (R) of Massachusetts declared: "As one member of the committee, I protest against its being used as a vehicle whereby Rep. McFadden can continue his attack on the president of the United States. If it is in order I move that Mr. McFadden not be heard."

McFadden yesterday on the floor of the house accused the president of "selling out" the United States, and of being the tool of international bankers who have large investments in Germany.

Rep. Crisp (D) of Georgia replied he thought the motion in order, "but it should be rejected."

"This committee," said Crisp, "cannot pre-judge what a witness will say. Mr. McFadden is a representative of the great state of Pennsylvania. This committee should get all information obtainable about the moratorium. Whatever Mr. McFadden says, the committee will give it proper weight. I am not in favor of making improper charges against the president. 'There is a remedy for that in the constitution."

Treadway then withdrew his motion, but declared if McFadden repeated his accusations against Mr. Hoover he would move to strike them from the record.

ANOTHER SPECIAL SESSIONS CALL FOR SOLONS MAY COME

delegation which are reported to be holding up compromise plans.

In the event that an agreement is reached before the legislature adjourns today, it was believed members would rescind the resolution calling for a recess from today until December 28, and that Governor Pinchot would issue a new Call for a special session, either today or on the night of December 28.

Serve Without Pay?

HARRISBURG, Dec. 16.—Still at variance with Gov. Gifford Pinchot, the senate today recessed after a twenty-minute session until 3 o'clock this afternoon in the hope that a compromise unemployment agreement of some sort could be reached before the Christmas recess is declared.

The house, meanwhile, awaiting results of conferences between administration and organization leaders with the reported aim of convening a new special session in which members would serve without pay, furthered a resolution memorializing congress in favor of a huge bond issue to relieve unemployment.

After a short-lived stay on the house floor, the McClure bill providing for the issuance of $35,000,000 worth of prosperity bonds, was sent back to committee for "further study."

Collect Taxes Quarterly

Only one bill was passed finally in the house today. The measure, introduced by Rep. Rhodes, Allegheny, provides for the collection of third class city taxes quarterly instead of annually.

The memorializing resolution, sponsored by Rep. M. A. Musmanno, Allegheny, and endorsing William Randolph Heart's proposed $5,000,000,000 federal appropriation for public works contruction, was reported out by the house rules committee, a surprise even to Musmanno himself who lost ground Monday night when his motion to discharge the committe from further consideration of the measure failed by a vote of 115 to 77.

To Aid Hospitals

The house also concurred in minor senate amendments made to the McKay bill making an appropriation of $2,000,000 to Pennsylvania hospitals. The bill now goes to the governor.

The senate passed finally the only third reading bill on its calendar and one which made special additional appropriations to three departments of the state government. The Department of Public Instruction is given an additional $2,000,000 to aid financially distressed school districts, the Department of Military Affairs $300,000 for work on the new National Guard Encampment site, the Department of Property and Supplies $280,000.

Passage of the Hutton House resolution by a unanimous vote in the senate indicated the upper branch still is far from being in agreement with the governor's stand on the special session. The resolution defines the purpose of the special session merely as "unemployment" and the points in the governor's program as "recommendations."

With the Talbot $10,000,000 poor district aid bill almost certain to be vetoed, senate leaders are fully aware that as the situation now stands the entire special session will be barren of results.

STATE BODY HEARS P. & L. E. PLAN FOR CHANGES IN CITY

tended today's hearing as counsel for the city gained the right to present its protest to the proposed changes.

Because of the absence of City Solicitor White in Philadelphia, the city of New Castle was represented by Attorney Charles R. Davis. Commissioner Samuel Walker, of Butler, presided.

Gives Outline

C. M. Yohe, vice president of the railroad, gave a general outline of the road's activities and the background of the present controversy.

On May 15, at a meeting with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Fred L. Rents, was chairman, the railroad explained in detail its proposed changes.

The plan was then outlined to the public by means of articles published in the New Castle News beginning July 18. The committee of the chamber announced, Yohe said, that it was in favor of the proposed plan. Other members of the committee included Mayor Gillespie, Lewis G. Genkinger, and P. J. Flaherty, president of the Johnson Bronze company.

On October 8, 1931, an application for permission to make the changes was filed with the Public Service commission. A hearing was set for last November 4 but was continued without taking testimony.

On cross-examination, Yohe gave further details of the operation of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and its connections with the New York Central system. He said the railroad held trackage rights over the Erie railroad to Sharon and that its main branch extended from Brownsville, Pa., to Youngstown, O.

To Enter Protest

Attorney Davis brought out that at the time the proposal was submitted to the ublic in the newspaper, the railroad was considering the expenditure of $250,000 for a new station. Later, when council learned that the road intended only to construct additional passenger facilities at the Baltimore and Ohio station, the city solicitor was authorized to enter a protest

Protestant's counsel was interrupted several times by Commissioner Walker when he attempted to show that the railroad was deviating from its original plans. The commissioner ruled that the railroad would put on the record the extent of its projected improvements and then Attorney Davis could summon witnesses in protest.

Gives Plans

G. W. Burnett, chief engineer for the railroad, who followed Yohe, gave considerable technical testimony. He said the railroad planned to construct adjoining the Baltimore and Ohio station a waiting room, 12 by 50 feet, built of red brick; a covered platform 200 feet long; a shelter shed of brick and Spanish tile; stairways to Liberty avenue, and a subway to connect with the Baltimore and Ohio subway system.

Burnett estimated the cost of these improvements at $41,000. In addition, because of the lack of space at that site, the railroad will take up two of its four main tracks which now pass the station, providing only a double-track system at that point. Burnett said this change would involve a large expenditure of money because of extensive changes to the railroad's signaling system. In addition, a section of the Baltimore and Ohio property will be converted into parking grounds for use of station patrons.

Burnett testified that removal of the two center tracks at the vicinity of the proposed station would increase safety features from the standpoint of passenger service and provide for a more efficient operation of the combined freight and passenger service.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. David M. Marshall.

Mrs. Genevieve Cunningham Marshall, wife of David M. Marshall, one of the best loved women of Lawrence county, passed from this life this morning at 3:40 o'clock at her home in Wampum, following an illness of some time. While not unexpected for some little time, her death comes as a shock not only to the members of her family, but to the entire community in which she resided and to the many friends that she had throughout Lawrence county.

Mrs. Marshall was born in New Castle, March 16, 1866, the daughter of James W. and Angeline Myers Cunningham and was 65 years of age. Her family was one of the more prominent of the county, her father being county treasurer for a period of time.

She and Mr. Marshall had been married forty-two years and had been residents of Wampum for the past thirty-five years. Mrs. Marshall had spent her entire life in Lawrence county.

As a member of the Presbyterian church she was associated with the congregation of the Wampum Presbyterian church, practically all her life. She was most active in all phases of the work of the Wampum Presbyterian church, being untiring in her efforts to advance the interests of the congregation of which she was a member. When her health became such as to prevent her active attendance in meetings held at the church, the hospitality of her home was extended and often the meetings were held at her home on Beaver street, Wampum, that she might be with her friends and co-workers in the church. She was also a member of New Castle Chapter No. 105, Order of Eastern Star.

Her death leaves a vacancy in the life of Wampum that will be hard to fill, as she was known for her kindly smile and helpful words by all, and especially for children, whom she loved and made much of.

She was the last surviving member of the family of the late James W. Cunningham. Besides her husband, she leaves the following children, Mrs. Lulu Marshall Davis and Mrs. Margaret Marshall Dahl, both of Ellwood City, Mrs. Emma Marshall McIlvenny, of Bessemer, Charles Marshall of Sharon, and Harold Marshall of Wampum, also eleven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday, December 18, 1931 at 2 p. m., in the Wampum Presbyterian church with her pastor, Rev. J. G. Bingham in charge. Burial will be made in Oak Park cemetery.

Robinson spoke most feelingly of the noble Christian character of the deceased and paid a glowing tribute to the life of service she had led while in his congregation.

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 16.—The coal industry today was warned that it must accept the "salvation of reorganization" by N. G. Alford, local engineer, who addressed the opening session of the annual coal mining institute of America.

"Present ills of the industry cannot be charged to the depression," he said.

Alford said the paramount need of the industry was aid for its workers. He declared that the industry's obligation to the investigating public must be met and urged healthy competition and necessary consolidation to place coal on a firm industrial basis.

Most of the sessions were devoted to technical and mechanical discussions.

arate direction and return to their camp by Monday night.

Wounds Are Fatal.

All appeared save Irwin. His companions searched the woods through the night but found no trace of the wounded hunter. Tuesday, a second searching party was organized and scoured an even wider territory without success.

Almost ready to abandon the search, they found Irwin shambling on his hands and knees toward the camp. He was rushed to DuBois and taken to the hospital where he died. The gunshot had wounded him in the abdomen and sprayed other parts of his body. Doctors said death was due to exposure, lack of food and fright.

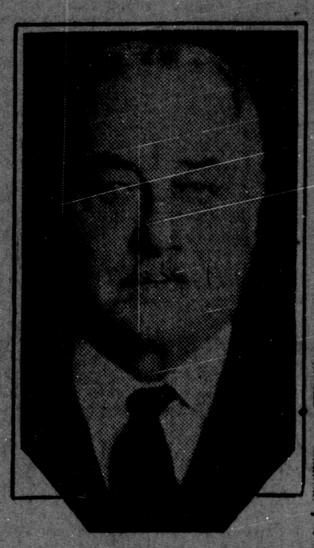
Mr. And Mrs. C. J. Kirk Celebrate Golden Wedding



C. J. KIRK

MRS. C. J. KIRK

Only once in a lifetime does a couple have the opportunity to observe the 50th anniversary of their wedding and an event of this kind was celebrated Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kirk, 305 Highland avenue.

The Kirk home was a bower of beauty, with gold and white flowers in profusion arranged about the rooms. Yellow tea roses were combined with baby breath in some arrangements, and gorgeous large yellow chysanthemums were arranged in golden baskets.

In in the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Liggett and Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McAfee and Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Kirk.

Mrs. Charles Kirk was gowned in the wedding dress she wore 50 years ago; Mrs. Howard Kirk wore her wedding dress of 32 years ago, and the Kirk daughters, Mrs. Liggett and Mrs. McAfee, also appeared in their wedding gowns.

After felicitating the happy couple and greeting the others, the guests were invited to the dining room, where golden chairs were placed about the room, carrying out the golden wedding idea perfectly; and here from a perfectly appointed table refreshments were served by Mrs. E. E. Seavy and Mrs. W. K. Hugus.

The table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, atop of which was a miniature bride and groom. The dainty refreshments were served on gold and white dishes and all appointments were in keeping with the sentiment of the nuptial anniversary.

The guests present Tuesday evening, who were also present at the wedding 50 years ago included Miss Carrie Griffith of Mercer, Miss Mary Bennett of Greenville, Albert Harbison, W. J. Eroe, James D. Rhodes, S. S. Hamilton, Mrs. L. B. Mather, Miss Carrie Crawford, Mrs. Alfred Vandivort, Mrs. Cam McCready and Lulu Richardson.

On December 15, 1881, New Castle society attended a wedding of quiet simplicity in the home of Dr. J. M. Peebles at the corner of Mercer and Grant streets, when the nuptial ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Dunlap, which united in marriage Katharine Effie Peebles and Charles J. Kirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kirk, also of New Castle.

After the ceremony in 1881 Mr. and Mrs. Kirk went to housekeeping in a home on the site of the present postoffice and moved from there at the time this site was taken for federal use.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk are the parents of four children, three of whom are living: Mrs. Thomas Liggett of Philadelphia, who was Margaret Kirk; Mrs. W. K. McAfee, who was Katherine Kirk, and Herbert S. of this city, who was affiliated with his father in the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company. The oldest son, Charles, is deceased.

The Kirks have long held a prominent position in the social and business affairs of the city. Mr. Kirk is the founder and organizer of the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing company, the first pottery to be founded outside of Trenton, N. J.

"Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise" is a saying that meant much to Mr. Kirk at the beginning of his career in the pottery business, for when entering this undertaking he knew little or nothing of the business and planned many things which other manufacturers said were impossible, but Mr. Kirk forged ahead, working out his ideas in an amazing manner and astonishing his competitors with the accomplishment of what they told him could not be done.

From the beginning in 1901 the company advanced in its work and in 1907 they developed the casting method of making sanitary pottery; on they went, with ideas ever advancing, and in 1915 they were the first to use a muffle type tunnel kiln for firing; in 1922 the company developed a humidity drier, then in 1923 Mr. Kirk and his associates purchased the plant of the former Florentine Pottery company at Cambridge, O., and organized the Cambridge Sanitary Manufacturing company, thus enlarging their industry.

In 1924 new ideas were still being pursued and matched designs in bathroom accessories were introduced, then in 1926 followed the color glazes, and in 1927 the company installed the most modern type of American continuous tunnel kiln. Mr. Kirk has ever and anon kept ahead of the times, not abreast of them.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION AT HIGHLAND CHURCH

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the reception given on Tuesday evening in the Highland United Presbyterian church as a farewell courtesy to the pastor, Dr. C. J. Williamson and his family, with the members of the congregation as hosts.

The assembly room of the church was beautified by the artistic arrangements of palms, evergreens, poinsettas, chrysanthemums and laurel, and as the six hundred guests of the evening arrived and left, an orchestra from the High School played, under the direction of Joseph Replogle.

Against a back ground of palms the receiving line stood to greet the friends of the Williamson family. In the line were Dr. Williamson, Miss Lois Williamson, Mrs. Williamson, who wore a beautiful shoulder corsage which was the gift of the Baldwin Bible Class, and the members of the session and their wives: Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gilkey, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Throop, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eckles, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Offutt, Mr and Mrs. Irvine Balph, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs Edward Rumbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McFate.

After the guests had said their farewells to the Williamsons they were invited to the dining room of the church, where refreshments were served by the members of the Naomi Circle.

The dining room of the church was a beautiful sight, arranged with lovely rugs and lamps, which transformed it into a home like room. Palms and ferns and handsome screens were placed effectively about and in the center of the room were arranged several tables, each covered with a lace banquet cloth and centered with silver bowls of pink roses and on each table were silver candelabra holding tall pink and green tapers carrying out a color scheme of pink and green, which was also used in the menu.

The Baldwin Bible class, under the direction of Mrs. H. R. McCulloch and Mrs. F. L. Burton, were in charge of the decorations and the Naomi Circle under the direction of Mrs. John Wallace, were in charge of the refreshments.

An orchestra from the Ben Franklin school played in the dining room throughout the reception hours.

1931 Bridge Club.

The home of Mrs. Roy Beals on Moody avenue was the scene of a delightful meeting Tuesday evening when she entertained the 1931 Bridge club members and one guest, Mrs. Iva Jones, informally at cards. Novel prizes went to Mrs. Harold Bird and Mrs. Earl Bishop at the close of the contest.

The exchange of Christmas gifts among the members preceded the serving of a delicious collation.

On Tuesday, December 29, the club will be received at the home of Mrs. John Wilson, Wilmington avenue.

50-Word Letter Entitles You To See A Great Picture Free

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne "But, my dear, you couldn't disguise your kiss—it was so entirely your own!"

"The Guardsman" is a picture that will be a revelation to screen fans. It is unquestionably a very personal triumph for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, who have been rightfully called the greatest stars on the American stage today.

Lunt and Fontanne have been reigning sensations and popular favorites for the past eight years. "The Guardsman" was one of their biggest stage hits and its picture transcription sent New York City critics into ecstasies.

Their performances and the picture itself rank with the best of the current season. "The Guardsman" should be one of the things you must see.

If you should need additional incentive, here it is: Go to the Penn Theatre on December 17th, 18th, or 19th.

Watch for the big moment in the closing scene when Alfred Lunt, disguised as a guardsman, returns to test his wife's love. He is sure that he has tricked her; she asserts blandly she knew him all the time.

Did she or did she not? This is the point on which there are as many conflicting opinions as there are patrons in the theatre.

Send us your 50-word letter of opinion. Readers submitting the most intelligent analyses of this dramatic denouement will each receive two free tickets to the Penn's following picture attraction, "Blond Crazy".

Answers must reach the "Guardsman Editor," care of the Penn Theatre, on or before Monday, Dec. 21st.

We repeat: by all means see this gripping and appealing satire of a conceited, opinionated actor who impersonates a strange lover to test the loyalty of his wife and thereby involves himself in a mental conflict as to whether he is a better actor than a husband.

HOLDING UP POSTOFFICE PROJECT

FACTS learned by The News yesterday indicate what appears to us to be an uncalled-for delay in the matter of completing the transfer of the property on the public square for a postoffice site.

While most of those interested in this project have been making every effort possible to speed up the preliminaries so that actual construction of the new postoffice can be started at the earliest possible moment, it is discovered that a lease on a small portion of the property now bids fair to develop an impasse that will result in condemnation proceedings being started by the government to secure possession of the small tract, a matter that will occasion delay of months if it is necessary to carry out.

The facts seem to be these. An aged lady owns and resides on a small section of the site sought. Out of humanitarian principles, those taking the site for the new postoffice decided not to touch the property that she lives in, but to allow her to continue to reside there, and take her property later, when it is advisable. It appears that a barber shop adjoining her home is also her property. This it was agreed would be sold to the government at the present time.

Now, when the effort is made to close the deal for this barber shop property, it is learned that a lease was recently renewed on it, which extends for five years longer. Holders of the lease are demanding that the government pay them a price for relinquishing it, and the government representative who was here in the negotiations believes that the price is too high, in view of the circumstances. Rather than pay the price, the government will probably resort to condemnation proceedings by law. All of which means that the property will be secured by the government, but that a long delay will be encountered while awaiting the legal condemnation.

There is little reason for going into the probable motives or possibilities actuating the lease renewal in the face of the postoffice situation. The fact is that the people of New Castle are of one mind in their belief that a speedy settlement of the matter be made with the government by the lease holders and those who executed the lease with them. There is scant excuse for holding up the entire postoffice project because of a questionable controversy over such a minor part of the desired site.

New Castle citizens want no long drawn out condemnation proceedings, but public sentiment demands a speedy adjustment, and the way opened for start of construction of the new postoffice.

THE REINDEER TRADITION OUTMODED

Time was when Santa Claus was able to visit the homes of all good little boys and girls in a single flight with a reindeer and sleigh and return home to the North Pole in time for Christmas breakfast. Now he has organized like big business, uses airplanes and automobiles to cover his numerous routes and employs more assistants than a bank has vice presidents.

This expansion of his enterprise should be a sufficient refutation to those who believe that modern children are more wayward than their ancestors. On the contrary, the number of well-behaved youngsters has increased to an extent that fairly taxes the available facilities of distribution.

POSTAL DEFICIT

The gross deficit of the Postoffice Department in the year ended June 30 was $146,066,189.66, compared with a gross deficit of $98,215,987.43 for the previous year. Postmaster General Brown estimates that the current year's deficit will be more than $150,000,000 unless various things are done to prevent it.

One of these would be the restoration of general prosperity. Another would be greater restriction of the franking privilege, with more discrimination used in the type of matter and amount sent through the mails free.

The Postmaster General urges particularly an increase in the first-class rates to three cents an ounce. Discussing it, he said:

"Such a rate would have balanced the budget for 1931 and would reduce the probable operating deficit and the corresponding drain upon the treasury from $150,000,000 to about $50,000,000 for the year 1932."

Always providing, of course, that just as much first-class mail is sent out under the higher rate as under the present one. There is a "law of diminishing returns."

FLEXIBLE TARIFF WORKS

Flexible tariffs, as provided by the Hawley-Smoot tariff law, have proved beneficial to the country's whole business structure as well as to enterprises and consumers directly affected. The flexible provision was not long in demonstrating its worth.

When President Hoover signed the measure he said the flexible provision would permit adjustment of the rate on one item either up or down without a tariff revision by congress that would disturb all business. Outside the trade circles directly affected business is not aware of most changes effected by the tariff commission.

There are 3,300 dutiable items, 66 per cent of which were unchanged by the Hawley-Smoot act, while 27 per cent were given increased imposts and seven per cent lower ones. More than 65 per cent of all imports enter duty free.

The flexibility provisions have been resorted to less than was expected by many. Up to June 24 the president had approved only six increases and 12 decreases. Recently he approved the tariff commission's report recommending two increases, five decreases and retention of the present rates on 13 other items.

Although the law authorizes the president to change the legal tariff to a maximum of 50 per cent, the maximum change has been made in only one instance. And the few appeals to the commission indicate that both business and the consuming public have found the tariff rates generally satisfactory.

Why Do Women Grow Up?
It's Embarrassing to Men
But Men Never Will Change

Women grow up.

Not all of them, to be sure.

But too many of them.

Little girls are older than little boys. Maidens are older than youths. Women are older than men, wives than husbands, daughters than their fathers. It's very annoying for my sex—and sometimes it's very irritating for the sex that grows older.

Men LOOK as if they were as old as women. They pretend to be. They grow beards and hold down solemn jobs and talk earnestly about their "work" and their "ambitions" and their "achievements." They run for office and take out insurance policies and "put over deals" and get on their dignity and "safeguard the future" and talk about posterity and erect a magnificent facade of maturity in front of them.

But it's all a fake. I'm sure of that. . . . They slip back into childhood at the least excuse. They go crazy about such things as football . . . or golf . . . or bridge . . . or even business. Even business they treat as if it were a game, as fun. They don't take it as a means of earning a living. They make it the most important thing in all life. They're funny creatures. . . . They don't grow up. Not all the way, at least. Not through and through.

But the majority of women do. Of course, a few of them are children to the end. But even the youngest woman feels immeasurably older than the oldest man. She may admire his abilities, she may respect his strength, but she is firmly convinced that, after all, he is just a big child. She's grown up and he isn't.

It's most annoying—to the men. They fool other men and they don't see why they can't fool the women. It's upsetting to a man who has lived along for 40 or 50 years and piled up a considerable reputation for solidity and maturity—and then suddenly discovers that the woman who knows him best still considers him a mere child. And is about to prove it to him—if he wants to argue the matter.

It's not right. It's taking an unfair advantage. But the men NEVER will change. Because, in their hearts, they know it's more exciting if a part of you never grows up. More painful at times, but also more fun.

BACKGROUND

Aren't you satisfied with surface showing and not at all anxious for anything which is complete in its thoroughness?

If you have children you want them to make public appearance?

If they "speak a piece" well enough to win applause you don't favor a course to ground them thoroughly in dramatics.

You are willing to pay for a course which means foundational work.

And it is foundational work that makes them competent to build later.

You are selfish to the extent that you want to save your pocketbook now and forget that you are also cutting down their future remuneration.

If your children have musical ability you complain if their teacher does not have them "playing solos" within a short time.

To be merely drilled on a selection does not provide a groundwork which is necessary if they want to be artists in music later.

But has this not been your attitude in regard to your own appearances?

You want to be coached to do most anything and do not realize that the time in coaching is wasted when development is needed.

With you, a smattering of knowledge has been all you have wished.

Pretty shallow yourself then, but don't let your children get any such idea in regard to education for they will need thorough background now-a-days.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

IN A DRESS SUIT

I wear the dress suit not because
In any way it alters me,
In any garb my faults and flaws
Appear for all to see.

I am the self-same man arrayed
In fashion's best attire
Who, wearing dusty garments, made
The evening's furnace fire.

And I am he in spotless white,
Who, three brief hours ago,
Wore muddied raiment that I might
Plant tulips, row by row.

No merrier are the jests I tell
In starch and broadcloth trim,
Than those my comrade loves so well
When we go out to swim.

Yet should I venture here tonight
In raiment soiled and worn,
Lacking this glossy shirt and white
I'd be a thing to scorn.

What shall we remember when we are old?
What shall we remember even when we are wise?
Softly, softly we shall remember
Love and love's mouth and love's eyes

What shall we remember more beautifully than wisdom?
What shall we remember in our cold years?

We shall remember, we shall remember
Love and love's laughter and love's tears.

What shall we remember when we are lost in quietness?
What shall we remember? What shall be keeping?

We shall remember, forever, forever
Love and love's sigh and love's sleeping.

I'd Like To See Science Explain How Any Man Can Get Up Enough Nerve to Fall In Love With a Widow With Six Children.

Several sound ladies have offered to marry come man if he will give them $10,000 so they can do the things they want to do. We notice where some smart guy has offered to furnish a customer to a young lady if she will pay him ten per cent commission. Anyhow ten thousand dollars would be a hindrance instead of a help to some people. Just keeping that much money would be a terrible job, especially if very many people knew one had it.

A SURE CURE

A lunatic in an asylum yard happened to meet the newly appointed superintendent of the institution.

"Who are you?" he inquired.

"Why, I am the new superintendent," was the smiling reply.

"Oh, it won't take them long to knock that out of you," asserted the lunatic, with confidence. "I was Napoleon when I came here."

From grandpa Perkins's point of view, the modern girl is all wrong, and he was not slow in expressing this sentiment to his granddaughter. "No, no, Nora" he said sadly, "girls are not the same nowadays, unfortunately."

His granddaughter smiled. She had heard this so many times.

"No," went on the old man, "you never see a girl blush nowadays. When I was a young man it was different."

"Oh granddad!" exclaimed the girl. "What ever did you say to them?"

"Well, he talked mighty loud, sah."

"Did he indulge in profanity?"

The witness seemed puzzled, so the lawyer put the question in another form.

"What I mean, Uncle Sam is, did he use words that would be proper for a minister to use in a sermon?"

"Oh, yes sah," the old man replied with a grin, "but dey'd have to be 'ranged in different order."

Too much oats and too much wheat,
Too much corn and too much heat
Too much cotton, too much oil
Too many hours that we don't toil.
Too many highway, too many cars,
Too many people behind the bars;
Too much poverty, too much wealth,
Too many people have poor health
Too many politics, too much booze
Too many wearin' high-heeled shoes
Too many loafing, too many bets
Too many failing to pay their debts
Too many spending their dough on gas
Too many talking of Europe's sass,
Too many living beyond their means,
Too many buying canned corn and beans;
Too many sowing their crops of wild cats,
Too many candidates after our votes;
Too many having their washings done,
Too many playing bridge for fun;
Too many looking for Uncle Sam,
Too many people don't give a damn:
Too many poets, too much prose
Too many girls without underclothes;
Too much buying of goods on time,
Too many people don't save a dime
Too much ball, too much play,
Too many politicians on big pay;
Too much taxes, too much spent
Too many folks spent every cent;
Too much fun, too much ease.
Too many rips in my B. V. D's;
Too much reform, too much law—

Futility Of Agitators Seen In Hunger March On Capital

Communist Enterprise Declared By Press To Have Produced No Aid For Those In Country Who Suffer From The Lack Of Employment

Communists who supported the so-called "hunger march" to the national capital are subjected to strong condemnation by the press because of the generally expressed opinion that they were engaged in publicity for themselves at the expense of those genuinely in need, without benefit to anyone.

"None is in sympathy with the demonstration except the radically inclined," in the opinion of the ST. JOSEPH GAZETTE, which finds it a fact that "even though the marchers are contemptuous of the capitalistic system, that same system enables them to travel in motor cars and trucks." The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION holds that "all sympathy is due the unfortunate unemployed everywhere," and that "an able-bodied man, unemployed thru no fault of his own, is mournful evidence of faulty functioning of our industrial system," but that "to stand in large numbers before the doors of the capitol is not the right approach to the solution."

"The hunger cry is but an excuse for the spectacularity upon which communism feeds," asserts the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, with the contention that "the demonstrations are simply imitations of the famous Coxey exploit, but there is less reason back of them." The CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL offers the appraisal of the incident: "Just what the marchers expect to accomplish would be hard to fathom. The country knows that many persons are hungry because many are out of jobs. The marchers add nothing to the general information on this point."

"The leaders in this pathetic performance," as viewed by the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, "represent no spontaneous American movement. Their banners, slogans and songs do not express the feelings of any class of the American people; and such demonstrations as this are are not meant to serve the interest of any American class—least of all that of the unfortunates who were beguiled into participation in it. This pilgrimage to Washington is, in its inception, a hostile alien enterprise into which 1500 American men and women were recruited so that they might be led into conflicts and disasters edifying to the organizers' employers."

"If each were to be handed $150 with the compliments of the government," argues the GLENDALE NEWS-PRESS, "the process would be endless. With the money gone each beneficiary would be unemployed still and eligible for another cash gratuity. This item is cited to show the utter folly and futility of the whole plan. Meantime there is keen sympathy for the unemployed and a concerted endeavor to find work for them, and in the meantime to provide for their needs. There is a growing feeling that the task belongs to each of the several states and that each must look out for the unfortunate within its own borders. To urge them on into the next commonwealth is not fair play. If they move on of their own volition, making themselves burdens and nuisances to strangers, they do not merit consideration."

"It should be noted," comments the FORT WAYNE NEWS-SENTINEL, "that Coxey's army, although comprising some Populists (radicals of the 90's) launched no attack upon the capitalist system, as such. But today, the 'national hunger march' stands freely charged with being a communist gesture, aimed primarily at creating dissatisfaction with the present order rather than with aiding the unemployed. And while its organizers deny these allegations and claim to be supported by some American Federation of Labor units it is not denied that there is a considerable proportion of communists among those in support of the project."

Denying that the organizers are "interested in the problem of unemployment as that problem appears to ordinary Americans," the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR states that "for them, the 'hunger march' is simply an advertising stunt put on by Moscow." The COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE gives indorsement to the position taken by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, and accepts as "fully warranted" his statement that "the leaders who inspired the march are not interested in helping the working people or solving their economic problems," but "want to overthrow the government and substitute the Soviet Union."

"The jobless nomad—the homeless, often so by choice," thinks the JANESVILLE GAZETTE, "is something of a human being to deal with entirely different from the jobless man who is out of work in his home town because some factory in which he may long have been employed is closed or is working on short time. Legislation of a relief character cannot deal with both these nomad laborers who most frequently make up the communist marchers, with nothing to lose, and the jobless home owner or tenant, who is a good citizen in a fixed locality with family and interests in that place of residence, in the same manner or on the same terms. The problem of labor is first of all with the home dweller. He is to be considered first of all and with emphasized attention."

'Bald Heads' May Hope, Says Doctor

Hair Grows From New Treatment, Dr. Clendening States

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The advance of science is likely to make me give up one of my hitherto most cherished convictions. I have frequently said in print that at the present state of our knowledge there is no cure for baldness. By baldness, I mean the common form. The hair falls out for various reasons and in some varieties it may grow back in again. But for the common form which mostly affects men, and which begins at about the age of twenty-five and ends up at about the age forty, leaving the top or crown of the head bare or partially bare and the sides prettly well covered, there has been, up to the present time, no reliable form of restoration.

My remarks were resented by many baldheads as being "hopeless." They appeared to think that I gloated over the spectacle of their misery. Obviously this was simply a cynical misinterpretation of my extremely kind and beautiful nature. Their plight pained me even more than it did them because I had to look at the top of their verdureless heads and they did not. It cannot be denied that the spectacle is not an aesthetic joy and I am dedicated to beauty. What did animate me was the desire to stop them from wasting their money on snake oil and light treatments and scalp massage, which certainly have been demonstrated to be valueless.

However, I am happy to announce to all who come within reach of my voice that it is possible a cure for baldness has been found. It is the use of the extract of the anterior lobe of the pituitary gland. It is sponsored by very good medical authority and it is certainly to be hoped that it will do all that is claimed for it.

We have known for a long time that the ductless glands exercised a regulatory influence over the growth of hair, and also were responsible for its loss. The present treatment was suggested by a patient who was being treated for a definite deficiency of the pituitary gland by the use of pituitary extract, and who in the course of the treatment developed a good growth of hair on the scalp, which had previously been very scantily supplied. The patient's mother and two sisters, although they showed no definite evidence of pituitary deficiency, also had scanty, dry hair.

The report states that "while the new series of experiments are but six weeks under way, indications point to the probability that the common types of baldness apparently demonstrate greater primary stimulation of the hair follicle" (than the other forms of falling hair). "Thus a person since 1914 presenting the typical shiny crown and forehead, has grown definite lanugo and hair in four weeks on daily injections."

The report is conservative in that it warns against too much enthusiasm before the method has been thoroughly tried. In spite of the fact that I will have to take back a lot of things I said, no one wishes the treatment better luck than I do.

KENSINGTON AT SNYDER HOME

Beautiful in every appointment and delightfully arranged was the annual Christmas party held by the Tuesday Kensington members on Tuesday afternoon when they assembled in the spacious residence of Dr. and Mrs. E. U. Snyder, Winter avenue.

Yuletide cheer was expressed in the home throughout with its many decorations, presenting a pretty pictures. A miniature tree prettily trimmed with sparkling tinsel and other ornaments added to the arrangement.

Following the serving of an elaborate dinner at 1 o'clock by Mrs. Snyder, who proved a most delightful hostess, assisted by her daughter Mrs. H. W. Clark a special guest of the occasion and Mrs. J. Q. Roberts.

During the brief business session, an impressive letter was read from Mrs. S. C. Gano, of Newark, Ill., a former member of the club and Christmas greetings were read from Mrs. W. F. Gardner and Mrs. H. G. Horton who were unable to attend.

The exchange of gifts was then in order, and useful and beautiful were the remembrances of the season. It was then decided by the club to assist some needy family during the holiday season. A splendid financial contribution from the ladies was the result and with a well filled basket, the Tuesday Kensington will spread cheer in a home where little children are in need of clothing.

The New Year party when husbands of the ladies will be honor guests will be held on Friday evening, January 1 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haydon, 22½ North Mill street. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock with the following committee in charge: the Mesdames J. Q. Roberts, Daniel Kennedy, Carey Davis, F. G. Haydon, E. U. Snyder and N. L. Gardner.

Plans Yule Voyage.

Miss Virginia Weinschenk of R. D. 7, teacher at the senior high school, will enjoy the coming Christmas and New Year's holidays with friends at San Juan, Porto Rico. She plans to sail from New York aboard the steamer Coama on December 24.

Her holiday voyage will be concluded when she returns here on January 4.

SOCIAL EVENT AT PENN-OHIO ROOMS

The members of the Women's committee of the Penn-Power company held their annual Christmas party on Monday evening in the company dining room. The activities were opened with the serving of a delicious menu at 6 o'clock at tables beautifully decorated in the seasons tones. Those in charge included Mrs. Elizabeth Carson, and the Misses Martha Dinsmore and Myrna Hasely. The rooms throughout were made most attractive with Christmas ornaments, with credit going to Miss Ann Fowler and Miss Marjorie Milholland for their supervision in decorations.

After the menu, Santa Claus distributed Christmas packages to each girl present, and in addition to this feature, handsome tokens were given to Mrs. Edward Longacre and Mrs. Walter Blackstock, two brides of recent date.

DINNER AND PARTY FOR AUXILIARIES

Members of the American Legion Auxiliary and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary and their children, will assemble in the Legion Home Friday evening for the annual Christmas party.

A dinner at 6:30 will begin the festivities and when this is over Santa Claus will appear with his pack of gifts for the kiddies, and there will be a program of entertainment.

Semper Fidelis.

The Semper Fidelis club members entertained at their annual Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Charles DeCarbo on Wilmington avenue Tuesday evening. The hours were occupied with contests in different card games, and at the close of play, the exchange of gfits occurred.

The hostess served a delicious lunch toward midnight, the small tables being rearranged for the purpose, decorated in gay tones of red and green expressing most complete, the yuletide season. Informal pastimes were in vogue until adjournment.

The next meeting will be held with Miss Mary Macierrelli as hostess, the date to be announced.

DANIEL LEASURE AUXILIARY PARTY

A most joyful time was in progress Tuesday evening when the members of Daniel Leasure auxiliary 52 of the Spanish War Veterans entertained their husbands and families at the annual Christmas party in the Legion Home, North Jefferson street.

Mrs. Elsie Lash presided over a brief business session and then the children, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Whittacre gave an entertainment.

The children entered the room ringing sleigh bells and singing "Jingle Bells". LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

But a few hours had elapsed after the news had been received in New Castle concerning the capture of Fort Sumter by the Confederates, when a company of young men recruited here, were ready to start for the front. They went by canal to Pittsburgh, where the Twelfth Regiment was being recruited. The New Castle men were organized into two companies, F and H, with Captain Edward O'Brien in command of the former and Captain Daniel Leasure in command of the latter. Leaving Pittsburgh, April 24, 1861, the Twelfth Regiment arrived in Harrisburg the next day, were reviewed by Governor Curtin and mustered into the United States service. They went into camp immediately at Camp Scott, near York, Pa., and were drilled for several weeks. On May 19, 1861, they were outfitted with clothing and accoutrements and on May 25, were ordered to move and take possession of the Baltimore and Harrisburg railroad from the state line to the city of Baltimore. This was done with headquarters maaintained at Cockeysville. The regiment was mustered out of service at Harrisburg, August 5, 1861, its work having been accomplished without strife or bloodshed. Many of the men of the two local companies afterward re-entered the army. SANTA MAY BECOME FIRE HAZARD, SAYS FIRE CHIEF URGING SAFETY

Lynn Tells How To Set Tree And To Avoid Dangers So Prevalent During Yuletide—Merchants, Too Are Urged By Chief To Take Extra Precautions As Holiday Approaches

"Santa Claus with his cotton whiskers and inflammable costume may become a real fire danger at Christmas time," said Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn today. "Trees that are allowed to dry out, that are trimmed with paper and celluloid decorations and surrounded by materials that burn rapidly, are also the cause of serious home fires at a time when happiness should prevail," Lynn said.

There are many ways to safeguard Christmas from fire, and yet enjoy an old-fashioned holiday season. Inflammable decorations should be avoided and under no circumstances placed near open lights or electric light bulbs.

According to the fire official, flake asbestos, and other fire-safe materials sparkle brightly and give the appearance of snow, but do not increase the fire hazard. Toys requiring alcohol, naphtha, kerosene or gasoline to heat or operate should never be given to children. They have both a fire and an explosion hazard. The tree should be set in a pan of water, so that it will stay green longer and be less combustible, and it should be fastened securely not only to a substantial base but near the top. No bare wires should be used on trees and lights should be on only when adults are present.

Candles should never be used on trees. If used elsewhere in the house, they should be kept from contact with burnable materials and adults should be ready to act quickly in any emergency.

"Merchants have always cooperated with the fire department in taking special precautions during the holiday season," Lynn said, "thereby preventing possible injury or loss of life by fire". It is added by the fire department head that if aisles are kept clear and combustible materials promptly removed at a sign of fire, danger of a serious store fire is reduced.

Kiwanis Host To Visiting Clubmen

City's Club Welcomes District Officers' School; McCurdy Speaks

Guests from other Kiwanis clubs in the central west Pennsylvania district dined at noon today with the members of the New Castle club in the Elks club, enjoying later the interesting address on vocational guidance work that Harry L. McCurdy, head of vocational guidance and training work at the Benjamin Franklin junior high school gave.

While the number of out-of-town Kiwanians had not approached the anticipated attendance at meeting time, it was believed that late arrivals would boost the number before the afternoon conference of officers opens.

The gathering of the visitors marks the periodical club officers' training school for newly-elected officers. Club presidents, vice presidents and secretaries, and committeemen as well, are in attendance.

Dr. Helling Leads

Seated with the speaker today was Dr. H. E. Helling, the district governor for the central west area, who is presiding over the program this afternoon. Dr. Helling was to have other district Kiwanians as assistants.

Instructions are to be given to the leaders as to what procedure and program should be followed in the district during the coming year. Nearly everyone of the new officers present takes office January 1 and today's training session is a timely event for that reason.

A welcome to the guests was extended by President Clement D. Parker.

Girls Leg Broken When Hit By An Automobile

Police Hear Of A Number Of Accidents On The Streets Of The City

Lester G. Hazen, of Kennard, Mercer county, Pa., was driving the car of B. F. Goodrich of Ellwood City, east on East Washington street at Arlington avenue, last night, when Martha Evanoski, aged 18, of Rose avenue, got off a street car. Mr. Hazen went around to the left of the street car and as he reached the front of the street car, Miss Evanoski ran from in front of the street car directly in front of his machine and was hit and knocked to the street.

Two men picked her up and she was removed to the nearby office of a physician. There it was found that her left leg had been broken just below the hip and she was removed to the New Castle hospital, where she is reported to be doing as well as could be expected.

Walter T. Boyd of 1055 Adams street, was enroute south on Moravia street and making a left turn onto West Long avenue, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license SIV74 passed his machine to the right and hit and damaged his car.

Raymond Black of Portersville R. D. 3, had his machine parked on South Mill street Tuesday, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 4F080 ran into the rear end of his car, damaging it to some extent.

Trouble is much like a hill on the highway. It looks much worse from an elevation than it does from the bottom.

Heroic Mayor's Solution of Unemployment Problem

* * * * * * *

Mayor Marvin of Syracuse, N. Y., Advocates Suspension of Female Municipal Employes Who Are Supported by Husbands. Needy to Get Their Jobs.

MAYOR ROLLAND MARVIN.

Epic poems have been written of deeds less heroic than that enacted by Mayor Rolland Marvin, of Syracuse, N. Y., who recently faced 165 women employes of the city and gave them their choice of taking a year's leave of absence or being dismissed. The Mayor's action was the culmination of a plan to relieve distress caused by unemployment in the city. His scheme calls for the suspension, voluntary or otherwise, of all married women on the municipal payroll who are adequately provided for by their husbands, the positions thus vacated to be given to men or women who are in dire need. To the eternal credit of the women concerned be it known that practically all agreed with Mayor Marvin and declared their intention of applying for leave of absence. Of course, there were a few dissenters, but it would be nothing less than miraculous if 165 women agreed upon any one subject. The Mayor's plan has attracted nation-wide attention and it is expected that not only other municipalities but also big industrial concerns will follow the Mayor's lead. Representatives of the American Federation of Labor are enthusiastic in praise of the scheme, asserting that if it becomes general the backbone of the unemployment dragon will be broken. Whatever the outcome, one can but commend the courage of Mayor Marvin. Victoria Crosses have been granted for less.

To Face Senate Quiz

One of the most formidable bombshells ever to explode in the United States Senate was the adoption by that body of the resolution by Senator Hiram Johnson (center) of California ordering a sweeping investigation into the sale of more than $15,000,000,000 worth of foreign securities in this country. If the Californian Senator's plans go through on schedule the committee will begin its inquiry by calling such powerful figures in the world of finance as Albert H. Wiggin (top left), Thomas W. Lamont (lower left), J. P. Morgan (top right) and Otto H. Kahn (lower right). Senator Johnson's move may have an important effect on the ratification of President Hoover's one-year moratorium on international war debts.

Bam Still Knocking 'Em Over

That Babe Ruth, the mighty Sultan of Swat, is almost as efficient with a gun as he is with a baseball bat is evidenced by the above picture. The Bambino is shown plucking a duck in his hunting camp at New Bern, N. C., as Frank Stevens, his hunting companion, looks admiringly on. The Babe and his pard had good sport and their bag included 5 deer, 31 ducks, 3 turkeys and several does. What! No homers?

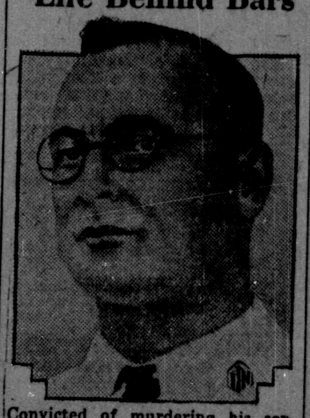
End of Dope Trail

A warning of what inevitably waits at the end of the "dope road" is contained in the confession of 17-year-old Cleveland Roberts, who is held in Los Angeles, charged with the slaying of A. R. Schartzer, a Christmas card artist. Roberts, according to police, confessed he shot Schartzer after the latter had given him dope and made him an addict, afterwards cutting off his supply.

Life Behind Bars



Convicted of murdering his son, Radford Grady Williams, a seaman in the United States Navy, the Rev. J. M. Williams, of Augusta, Ga., will spend the remainder of his life in prison. The State contention was that the minister had slain his son to collect the insurance on his life in order to recoup speculation losses. Jury's recommendation of mercy saved Williams from the death penalty.

Handling Free Milk For Half-Hundred Callers Is Daily Mission Duty

Down at the City Rescue Mission, South Mercer street, busy haven of refuge for deserving families here whom fate has compelled to ask aid, you'll find one of the busiest afternoon tasks is the distribution of free milk donated to the Mission by local dairies.

It's a sure guess, at least that's what Superintendent B. J. Watkins says, that anywhere between 35 and 50 representatives of the city's families will be on hand a few minutes after the milkman pays the Mission his afternoon call.

Milk Comes Gratis

Obliging dairy firms, anxious to help out as best they can, ship the milk daily to the Mission in huge containers. It is then poured from the cans into the quart jars that callers bring.

"The Mission never did this before until the year," said Mr. Watkins. "We feel it is something worthwhile, and the people appreciate the generosity of the dairy owners. It is a real life-saver for those receiving it."

Every drop of the donated milk, it is said, goes into some home where it is needed. In many are to be found babies and school tots whose growing conditions demand the nourishment.

Mr. Watkins explains that on the average, each family receives two quarts. When the number dependent upon the supply is extremely large the amount is increased.

Help Furnish Soup

Along with free milk it is the task of the Mission to furnish soup to many, and Mr. Watkins said it would be hard to figure the number who call for it.

Only Tuesday a donated truck, provided by Elmer Welker, the local florist, drove about the county to collect corn potatoes, wheat and other farm contributions. The Mission will furnish it for needy who depend upon the Mayor's Relief Committee for daily support.

NEEDS OF FUTURE

Dec. 15, 1931.

Editor, The News:

Do not get discouraged!

As I see the future, what we will have to do will be as follows:

First, get down to business like the way and in the manner of our forefathers who started us right in principles of Christian religion on the rules for success which our forefathers used to conquer a wilderness and lay the foundation for the greatest nation in the world today.

Prosperity brought with it the dreams of short cuts to fame and fortune. America chased the bubble until it burst and now most of us are sitting down trying to think of some short cut or scheme to get back on prosperity's road again.

We need rather to get back to sound common sense. The world has changed but the principles upon which civilization was founded have not changed. The inequalities under which we are now chafing are the result of our disobeying the fundamental principles listed above, instead of further fooling ourselves by following some of the men who are promoting unsound ideas about the return of prosperity.

Our next most urgent need is faith; faith in ourselves and to be honest in God. We need to remind ourselves that proved once will not suffer us to be tempted beyond that which we can endure.

We can catch glimpses of a rainbow of hope in the parable of birds of the air that neither sow nor do they reap nor gather into barns and yet they find enough somehow, and time to exercise the blessed gift of song.

Now to get prosperity back the taxpayers will have to do as has been seen in the New Castle News of recent date; in Philadelphia, when 15,000 protested against a 35½ cents tax increase and 50 per cent water rate boost and got the 1932 budget lowered $13,000,000. The middle man on a large salary; the consumer claims he is paying too much for products which he is but the producer does not get the prices he should. And you will see as consumer and producer where part goes to the middle man.

E. F. Creekmore, head of the Cotton Stabilization corporation is paid $75,000 per year, the same salary drawn by the president of the United States; that George S. Milnor, head of the Grain Stabilization corporation is paid $50,000 a year and is assisted by two presidents, one at $35,000 and one at $25,000 a year; also by a treasurer at $30,000 a year.

Ninety five employes of the above stabilization groups are paid an average salary of $730 a month. Now to get and have prosperity we must get the middleman down in salary and in number.

New Castle is noted for many churches and good schools but under present conditions pretty hard to exist.

(Signed)
G. D. GLOSNER,
R. D. 3, City.

Culbertsons Take Lead In Contract Bridge Title Bid

Culbertsons Take Lead At End Of First Rubber Played Tuesday Evening

Mrs. Culbertson Contributes Success To Approach-Force Bidding

(Following is a description of play last night in the contract bridge match between Josephine Culbertson, and Ely Culbertson, and with him, originator of the approach-forcing system of ntract bidding, and Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, expressly written for International News Service by Mrs. Culbertson.)

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON
World's Greatest Woman Bridge Player

Copyright, 1931, By International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Perhaps there is more in luck than I have ever believed. Certainly, in the first few days of the match being played by Ely and me as representatives of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding against Mr. Sidney S. Lenz and Mr. Oswald Jacoby as representatives of the official system, I have been overwhelmed with messages from believers in the system and personal friends, suggesting ways of stemming the flood of adverse aces and kings and favorable distribution.

Culbertsons Lead.

In any event, the first rubber of last evening saw us in the lead for the second time at the end of any rubber during the match. I prefer, however, to believe that this result was brought about not by any change in luck, for I have been reasonably satisfied with our luck all along, and not with any superior skill in play, for that I have never claimed, but to a system of bidding which has enabled u to find more readily the best bid in the combined hands.

The hand was as follows:

North—Dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

North—Mr. Lenz
S—K Q 7 6
H—7 5 4
D—10 4
C—A Q 8 7

West—Mr. Culbertson	East—Mrs. Culbertson
S—J 10 9 8 5 2	S—A 4
H—K	H—J 9 3
D—Q 9 8 7	D—J 3 2
C—J 9	C—10 6 5 3 2

South—Mr. Jacoby
S—3
H—A Q 10 8 6 2
D—A K 6 5
C—K 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 Club	Pass	2 Hearts	Pass
3 Hearts	Pass	6 Hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Mr. Jacoby in the play lost 2 heart tricks and the ace of spades and through the bidding of the slam lost the first game of the rubber, a result which would not have followed had they been using our system of bidding.

Makes Five Spades

One of the really big swings of the night occurred on hand No. 245, which I played in a contract of five spades doubled. The hand and bidding were:

West—Dealer. North-South vulnerable.

North Mr. Lenz
S—3
H—9 5
D—A Q 10
C—A K 10 9 5 3 2

West—Mr. Culbertson	East—Mrs. Culbertson
S—10 5 2	S—K Q J 8 7 4
H—A K 10 8 3	H—Q J 7 2
D—7 6 5 4 2	D—K
C—	C—7 6

South—Mr. Jacoby
S—A 9 6
H—6 4
D—J 9 8 3
C—Q J 8 4

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2 Clubs	2 Spades	2 N. T
3 Spades	4 Clubs	Pass	5 Clubs
5 Spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Mr. Jacoby's double of the five spade contract would not, I feel sure, have been made were it not for the faults of the system which obscured the unusual distribution so far as the North and South players were concerned, but left it crystal clear to my partner and me that we could either make five spades or prevent the making of five clubs at a trifling sacrifice.

A fortunate result for us was record on hand No. 239 in which, due to the official system opening bid of two no trump, our opponents played a hand for a game, which, using approach methods, could easily have been bid for a slam, which was made laid down.

Circuit Court Has Reversed Decision On Rossiter-Beals

Erie Attorney And Lester Beals Hear Circuit Court Reverse Lower Court

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16—Two of three men convicted in the U. S. District Court of Western Pennsylvania and sentenced to prison for their alleged participation in the famed 'prisoner substitution" trial at Erie, Pa., today had gained a reversal of their convictions in the U. S. Circuit Court here. The third man's conviction and sentence, however, was uphelp by the appellate court.

Samuel Y. Rossiter, noted gray-haired attorney, and Lester Beals, alias Fred Black, both of Erie, were the pair successful in obtaining a reversal of the lower court decrees. Joseph Donovan, an auto dealer of Erie, who was convicted along with Rossiter and Beals failed in his appeal. His conviction was affirmed.

The decision in the case was handed down by Judge Victor B. Woolley, coming last evening after an extremely busy day in the federal courts.

Rossiter had been sentenced to pay court costs, a fine of $2,500 and to serve four months in the Cambria county jail.

Beals was under sentence to serve three months in the Beaver county jail while Donovan was sentenced to serve six months in the Allegheny county jail.

Warner Satisfied

Joseph Warner, alias Patrone, alias Jarvis, the man alleged to have been substituted in the Erie county jail, was given a jail sentence of one month in the Allegheny county jail on the first count of the indictment and was placed on probation on the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth counts. He did not appeal.

The sentences were imposed by Judge Nelson McVicar in the federal court at Pittsburgh May 4 last. The trio then appealed to the appellate court and their arguments were heard about two months ago.

The latest decision in the much discussed affair is believed to have brought to a close one of the most amazing cases in the history of the federal courts of Western Pennsylvania.

The trio were indicted charged with conspiracy to substitute Warner for a wealthy alleged Canadian rum runner in serving a prison term in the Erie county jail.

A VERY THRIFTY PERSON
(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex. Dec. 16,—This city's most thrifty citizen has been found. The telephone on the sports desk of a local newspaper rang, and a feminine voice inquired: "What is the price of two choice seats at the game today?" Told that all the choice seats had been sold she replied: "I'm not wanting to buy any. I just wanted to know how much I'll save by staying at home and listening to the game over the radio."

Titans Welcome Grovers Into Conference League

Westminster College Student Weekly Lauds New Member

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 16.—The Westminster Holcad, student weekly, yesterday lauded editorially the entrance of Grove City into the Tri-State Conference.

The editorial said, in part:

"The entrance into the Tri-State Conference of our neighbor college and esteemed rival, Grove City, is greeted with enthusiasm by all Westminster. The conference gains prestige with the Grover teams listed in the league, and Grove City, which has always been a leader athletically, will have a tangible claim to championships that otherwise were not given Crimson teams.

"Through years of rivalry, the Grovers remain the best drawing card on the Titan schedules. May partnership in the Tri-State Conference continue the good sportsmanship and traditional rivalry that have marked Grove City-Westminster contests since the Turn of the Century."

BAKE CAKES FOR CHARITY
(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore. Dec. 16,—The Rev. Oswald W. Taylor, pastor of the Grace Memorial Church here, set an example when he rolled up his sleeves and baked a thumping good allspice cake which he auctioned off to add funds to the church treasury. A city-wide cake-baking contest for men resulted which brought forth a notable array of pastry and convinced many wives that their husbands were hiding their light under a bushel.

Philadelphia "Broke" 25,000 Are Payless

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Twenty-five thousand of Philadelphia's employes went payless yesterday and there were still no funds in sight today.

The city is definitely "broke" and banks have refused to loan municipal and county authorities money to meet the $1,700,000 payroll.

Two such loans had been arranged, but the bankers refused when it came to making the third. Thus for the first time in half a century the city treasury was bare of funds.

However, there is a chance that within 24 to 48 hours a loan of $3,500,000 can be arranged with local bankers providing for the payroll now due and the one due on December 31.

May Issue Scripts.

If bankers will not consent to this loan unpaid city workers will be given individual warrants in lieu of cash. These certificates will pledge the city to redeem them in cash when sufficient funds are collected.

The scrip, however, faces a cold reception when the owners try to use it, it was indicated today. Joseph Wayne, Jr., president of the Philadelphia Clearing House association, was quoted as stating that member banks will not honor the paper.

LINE, 2,604 MILES LONIG
(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Oregon's 2,604 miles of improved roads will have a six-inch white stripe painted in the center, if a movement initiated by the Oregon section automotive engineers is adopted. Painting of such line, they claim, would reduce automotive accidents which are increasing at an alarming rate in Oregon. Drivers have a tendency to pull closer to each other at night, especially if the highway is wet, it is said. The presence of a center line would aid in the elimination of the "blind spot" hazard motorists fear while passing each other at night and would practically insure an 18-inch passing space.

Jury Has Case Of Man Held In Driving Charge

Bernitia Lapena Being Tried On Charge Of Involuntary Manslaughter

THOS HAINES KILLED WHEN AUTO CRASHES

The case of Bernitia Lapena, who is charged with involuntary manslaughter in Lawrence county court in connection with the death of Thomas Haines on July 4, 1929, went to the jury about noon today after arguments by Attorney S. W. McCracken for the defendant, Assistant District Attorney Alvah Shumaker for the commonwealth and a charge of Judge R. L. Hildebrand.

Delay in trying the case was occasioned by the absence of Lapena, who left his home in Koppel shortly after the accident, and was not apprehended until a short time ago. The accident in which Haines was killed occurred on the New Castle-Beaver road near the Crescent Portland Cement plant.

According to the testimony, Lapena, with Thomas Haines, William Steppes and John Buckner, were driving from Koppel toward Wampum on July 4th, 1929. Near the Crescent plant the car left the road and crashed into a bank. Haines was killed and Lapena injured.

Lapena was taken to a hospital in this city, but the same day was removed to his home in Koppel. Coroner J. P. Caldwell, who was called on the case, made an investigation and as a result notified William Fleming, then county detective, that he believed Lapena should be held for an inquest.

Detective Fleming, who was busy on another case at the time, secured State Highway Patrolman Brady, Paul, who later was killed by Irene Schroeder and Glen Dague, to investigate the case.

They went to Koppel and found that Lapena was so badly injured that he could not be taken into custody at the time. After making arrangements to be notified when he had sufficiently recovered, they left. Other visits were made by Fleming and the officers, but Lapena was still in bed. However, on their last visit they found that he had left. He was traced to Buffalo, then to Niagara Falls. For a time his whereabouts were unknown, until recently, when he was arrested.

Stepps and Buckner, who were in the car with Lapena, claimed at the trial that Lapena had been driving at a reckless rate of speed, estimating it from 40 to 50 miles.

In his own defense Lapena testified that on the day of the accident he was rounding a slight curve, and the car left the concrete. Then he pulled it back it shot across the road and into a bank. He denied that he was driving at a reckless rate of speed, saying he was going around 30 to 35 miles an hour. He also denied that he had left on account of fearing arrest.

Ritchie Sketched

Here is a new sketch portrait by Artist Simmons of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, looked upon by political observers as one of Governor Roosevelt's chief opponents for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Political Reverse

Women are not the only ones eminently fitted to change their minds. It is also a political prerogative. Horace Mann, who was manager of Herbert Hoover's Presidential campaign in the Southern States in 1928, is shown at his desk in the headquarters he has established in Washington, D. C., for his drive against the President's re-election. Mann believes that Senator Hiram Johnson would be a better candidate.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Widowers Are Warned To Beware

Keep Children Uppermost In Mind, Dr. Myers Counsels

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Not being a widower myself, without any conscious wish that I might be, with no prospects of becoming one, I am going to presume to offer some advice to the widower.

I shall address only the widower whose children still are dependent, and particularly the widower with very young children.

This undertaking I recognize to be a delicate one; for more wives that widowers will read it. They will "eat it up" whether or not they will agree with me, since they, too, are endowed with considerable imagination. Some of you wives and mothers really are more fit to give advice on this subject than I am. In case you do disagree, make whatever changes, substitutions or omissions you see fit and try it on your husband There is some possibility that he will be a widower some day.

Now to my widower: Resolve that you are going to do the best possible for your children. Keep them uppermost in your mind. So comport yourself that you will maintain the high regard of the old family friends which you cherished while your wife was living; and, if your children are old enough to respond to these matters, the high regard of them. The highest tribute you can pay the memory of your dead wife is to earn such esteem. You, therefore are not going to make a fool of yourself, under any conditions, not let your loneliness at all justify relaxation of such standards. Pilot your conduct as unselfishly as had always been your custom.

Of course there are good schools available for motherless children of about all ages, but you are going to hold your children together if at all possible, spending as much time with them as you can, learning to win their affection and esteem. You now have a strong urge to study your children and yourself in relation to them. You will read books on the subject and spend a lot of time thinking through your problems, recalling the modes by which their mother had been most successful with them. If some relative who seems adaptable can be induced to become a substitute mother, very well. In most instances such a person should receive a salary.

In case you must choose a stranger as mother-housekeeper, choose one well up in years, whose reputation will in no wise cast reflections upon you. Resolve early never to allow your self to acquire any personal interest in her. No widower can marry such a person without some doubt concerning him, coming to the minds of old friends of the family, no matter how nearly ideal the relationships had been.

It's for you to decide whether you will remarry or not, but be sure you make the decision yourself. Many widowers don't. Be wary of the wiles of maids and widows who are waiting for you. Some may have had designs on you even during the illness of your wife, and may be the most ardent volunteers to offer comfort during and following the funeral (great stuff, eh?), and her whole program of behavior may be unconscious; certainly it may appear most innocent.

If I were a woman longing to marry a certain widower, willy-nilly, I should set out deliberately to be an angel of comfort to him and his family during his bereavement, and all the while I should express my deepest affection for the memory of the deceased wife, neglecting no opportunity to recite her praises, particularly when before the children and their father. Then I should patiently await developments. I am sure I have seen such undertakings work out to the letter, regardless of the hypocricy involved.

You needn't tell me —I know Camel is the fresh cigarette!

Here's why they're FRESH!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

THERE is of course a sound reason why the Camel Humidor Pack can deliver to Camel smokers a cigarette that is genuinely fresh.

Camels are made fresh to start with, fresh with natural moisture—blended of the choicest, delicately mild, full-mellow, sun-ripened tobaccos that money can buy.

The full natural goodness of these fine tobaccos is safeguarded at every step in their handling—they are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we can say with every assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

The delights of a genuinely fresh cigarette are so rare and desirable that Camel popularity continues to mount daily to new highs.

Test these delights for yourself—see what true freshness means in cool, slow-burning, delicate mildness—switch to Camels for just one day, then leave them—if you can.

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—They tell me that the columns which go over best are those which roam around—things about how Bing Crosby dresses his hair, about how Ronald Colman acts in his home, about curious, variegated corners of this town. I like that staccato stuff, to read it and to write it; I'm glad it seems to go over best. But today—

Today I'm going to tell you about the proprietor of a speakeasy. We will call him Joe. He is a partner in a cramped, dim little place, with sawdust on the floor, up in the new newspaper district—around Murray Hill.

Joe would probably be surprised if he knew I was calling him a speakeasy operator. He thinks of speakeasies more or less as most of us do—gaudy, expensive places where the bar is crowded by people anxious to violate the law and get drunk. It never occurs to him that because, with the excellent food he serves, wine and brandy can also be obtained, that he is technically a criminal.

Joe has been in the speakeasy business for 12 years. He was a waiter first, in one of the really garrish joints. He saved his money and when he could open, with a friend, their own place, he felt that he was getting away from speakeasy life. He served drinks, of course; but there was a difference—this was a modest and dingy hole-in-the-wall. A place for food. A place for long games of cards, for that boisterous game of how-many-fingers-up Italians love to play, for talk and quiet smoking. A place for family men, for hard-workers.

Joe is a family man himself. He lives on Long Island, in one of the inexpensive developments. He has a wife whom he married at 19, and he is very happy with her and their two boys. One of the boys is 16; he is through high school and will go to Columbia next year. The other is finishing grammar school, and Joe is proud of the excellent report cards he brings home.

Joe has heard about gangsters and rum-runners. He speaks about them remotely and with some indignation. They don't do anybody any good. They ought to be wiped out. He won't have people like that in his place as customers even.

He is wrought up, deep down, over American life. He can't understand how men can marry women and bring up families and then run around with young girls. Is there no stability? Is there no loyalty? He is very happy with his wife, after 21 years. They may be plain, God-fearing folk, but their home is run on sound principles no children from it will fall into evil ways if he and his Mary can help it.

"You set—how you say?—a fine egsamp. The fine egsamp, it make the young honorable in your house. I cannot have dishonorable young in my house."

Joe is a great hunter. Each fall he can talk about nothing else for about six weeks. Last year he had a falling out with a good friend who took out a favorite dog and allowed it to be run over. It is the one thing he cannot stand— cruelty to animals.

He is always in a good humor. The only thing which depresses him is a customer dissatisfied with the food—or the drink. Because Joe's cellar is definitely post-war. It is, except for the home made wines, synthetic stuff. He knows nothing about hard drinks. Few people complain about the food unless they have had too much of the drink. He pays twice as much for liquor as his customers pay at retail from their bootleggers for better goods.

The depression, Joe will tell you, is hard on the restaurant business. Sometimes he has thought of opening up a "speakeesy"—although just exactly what that is he doesn't make plain. He would open one, in fact, if it weren't for the wife and kids. He could not do a thing like that to them; and besides, his heart would not be in the project.

Protection?

Joe shrugs. "For why should I pay the law? I do nothing wrong. They do not bother me. A leetle drink with a meal? That is good for the sto-mak. A doctor will say the same. Eet is not the same as if I ran a speakeesy!"

Joe is not your typical proprietor of such places in New York, but there are enough like him to make the picture pointed. Joe, curious eddy of metropolitan life, comes no nearer to "the underworld" or to a sense of guilt, than you or I do. It is all a drama going on in the papers that he reads—distant, strange and deplorable.

Local Relief Operations Are Going Smoothly

Mayor's Relief Committee Finds That All Departments Are Functioning

URGE CITIZENS TO REPORT NEEDY ONES

Reports of the various sub-committees of the Mayor's Relief committee, made at the meeting in city council chambers showed that the organization is now functioning smoothly and that a great amount of assistance is being furnished the needy persons of the city.

It is believed that every person who is in need of assistance in the city is being taken care of, the work of the committee being augmented by fraternal organizations, relief organizations of industrial plants, and the like.

Chairman James K. Love of the Mayor's committee asks, however, that any person who has reason to believe that people are in want and in need of assistance should report this fact to the Mayor's Relief committee, Phone 5084, and if an investigation reveals this to be true, they will be assisted.

The officers of the Mayor's Relief Committee do not want any deserving person to be neglected, and, and are particularly desirous that citizens aid the committee in this regard.

The churches are doing a splendid work in unearthing deserving cases, some of which are being cared for by the congregations themselves.

Last evening's meeting was one of the best yet held and the reports of all committees showed that the entire organization is cooperating splendidly.

PAUL GAMBLE

RUTH WAGONER

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 16.—When the class in acted drama at Westminster College presented its second series of one-act plays in the Little Theatre last night, these three students took leading roles. Paul Gamble, Sharon, was the artist in Ethel Van Der Veer's play "When The Horns Blow." Miss McCuen, Pittsburgh, the home girl, and Miss Wagoner, Sharon, the artist's model, two of the girls with whom the artist becomes infatuated.

"The Boor," a Russian play by Tchekoff, featured Virginia Reeher, New Castle; Thomas Herriott, New Wilmington; and Wilson Miller, Leechburg. Professor A. T. Cordray, director of the Little Theatre, placed Thomas Herriott, New Wilmington, and Dorothy McGeoch, Cambride, N. Y., in charge of the two plays as student directors.

Two showings of the plays were given; one at 8:15, and one at 9:15. All scenery, drops, and properties for the productions, and most of the costumes were made by members of the class in acted drama.

Santa Claus Workshop Is Busy Place Nowadays

New Castle folks who pay a visit to Santa Claus' workshop located in Apple way, just south of Washington street, will carry away the impression that Christmas is going to be made happy for a good many New Castle boys and girls, who would not otherwise be visited on this occasion.

Any day that one drops in now he will find a group of war veterans, members of the Harry L. McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, busily engaged in taking apart mechanical toys that have been broken down under the pressure of abuse, fixing them up and oiling their "innards" so that they run like new.

Broken rocking chairs, hobby horses, cradles, doll baby buggies, etc., are fixed up as good as ever again, and a coat of paint applied, so that one can't tell the difference from those sold in the stores.

In the meantime, the ladies auxiliary is busy putting new heads on dolls, washing faces that have become soiled and putting new dresses on them, and hundreds of dolls which will delight the hearts of little New Castle girls are being made ready for the day before Christmas.

The post and its auxiliary are receiving the cooperation of the citizens of New Castle in this movement, but there is still a need for more toys if the demands of those who have written to Santa Claus may be taken as any indication.

Those who have toys may bring them to the Toy Mission in Apple way, where the committee has someone on hand to receive them all day long.

Those who cannot visit the Toy Mission in person with their contribution can notify Jack LaRue, commander of the McBride post; Mrs. Evelyn Woods, president of the auxiliary, or "Dad" Davis at the Legion Home building and the toys will be called for.

Union Township P. T. A. Meeting

Christmas Program Is Presented By Pupils Of Harbor School Tuesday Evening

A Christmas spirit pervaded the auditorium of the Union High school Tuesday evening, when the members and guests of the Parent-Teacher Association, numbering five hundred or more, assembled for the Christmas program, under the direction of Miss Kathryn Double, teacher of the Harbor School.

The little folks made a striking appearance on the stage as the curtains were drawn; they were busily engaged in rolling some snow balls and against the back ground of green and white, two large Christmas trees were beautifully lighted and covered with snow.

The playlet, "The Girl Who Had No Birthday" was pleasing in every way and those taking part were: Maggie, Jean Green: Freddie, Howard Mathews; Jack, Fred Cifra; Jim, Arwood Pinkerton; Paul, Rusell Rhorer; Flossie, Eliose Corban; Mabel, Bertha French; Grace, Gladys Thorpe: Gloria, Margaret Corban.

A chorus of children's voices harmoniously blended and well trained, sang. Those in the chorus were Jennie Dinucci, Ruth Emery, Gayle Potter, Marie McCance, Marjorie Smith, Lula Michaels, Pauline Zuraskey, Mary Ella Kenehan, Ralph Fox, James McClain, Harold Woods, William Woods, Robert Cifra, Elmer Zuraskey, Herman Byler, Eleanor Fox and Ruth Cox.

All who were in any manner responsible for this wonderful performance were graciously repaid for their work in the appreciation of the large audience.

M. K. Cox presided at the business meeting when matters of importance to the organization were taken up.

The January meeting will be an Art program by Merrill Young and will include a piano recital by Margaret Graham and her pupils.

Police Chief Horner today instructed Traffic Captain J. Ed Elder to inform all city patrolmen, sergeants, detectives and other officers to pay keep attention to the condition of traffic signs in the city. The men on the 'beats" will be held responsible should any sign be in bad condition and not be reported so the condition can be remedied.

According to Horner and Elder there are some signs which have been knocked or twisted out of place and the patrolmen and other men in the department have been instructed to report all such signs immediately.

The department of streets will be asked to remedy the condition. If not the signs will be removed.

It is also probable that signs placed by individuals in front of businesses, now closed 'prohibiting parking" will be removed."

FLIP OF COIN IS USED TO DECIDE SENIOR JUDGESHIP

(International News Service)

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Dec. 16.—Charles K. Morganroth will be the president judge of Northumberland county during the next ten years, because a coin flipped in his favor, it was learned today.

He and Edward Raker, district attorney, were elected to the bench in November and agreed upon the coin tossing for presidential honors.

ONLY ONE PERMIT

Only one permit for the construction has been granted by the city engineer during December and that was for a small fence. Building operations are far below 1930 and the amount of collections for permits will be also less than last year.

Among the evidence the jury must consider is the evident fact that most of the witnesses are lying.

Thirteen Nations Fail To Pay Sums Due December 15

Thirteen Of European Nations Default In War Debt Payments Due Tuesday

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Thirteen European governments, into whose outstretched hands America poured a stream of gold during the World war period, were guilty of a technical default in their refunding agreements Tuesday when they failed to make the December 15 payments.

The default wil be "forgiven" by the American government, as President Hoover already has declared a one-year moratorium on the payments now due. Failure of congress to promptly authorize the moratorium brought about the technical default.

The 13 governments defaulting were Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Czecho-Slovakia, Esthonia, Finland, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Roumania and Jula Slavia.

The state department was ready to tell representatives of the debtors that there would be no "criticism" of their default, due to the delay of congress in ratifying the moratorium. Up to 2 o'clock none of the debtor nations had made any inquiry about the matter.

In all the moratorium cost the government $117,412,000 in payments due Tuesday. England topped the list with a postponed payment of $80,180,000 while France was second with $20,000,000. These payments under the moratorium agreement, should be repaid in the future, although critics of the moratorium charged it marked the first step in cancellation of the debts.

Notables Taking Keen Interest In Edith Riley Case

Several Members Of Congress Are Interested In Outcome Of Cruelty Case

WELFARE BOARD STANDS ACCUSED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Thirteen-year-old Edith Riley, District of Columbia "cupboard child," continued her playing at Gallinger hospital while the legal machinery moved along toward the trial of her parents today. They are charged with being "feloniously cruel" to the girl.

The father, Harry, and the child's stepmother, Elsie, are alleged to have kept the girl a virtual prisoner in a closet for four years. She was taken from her dungeon-like cell by a policewoman when her elder brother told the story of her imprisonment at school.

The case has attracted the attention of many members of congress, including Mary Norton, representative from New Jersey and a member of the district affairs committee. She will be one of the interested witnesses at the trial, chiefly because of allegations that members of the district welfare board had received reports of the child's imprisonment and condition seven years before the police intervened.

Costs And Finances Of Ellwood Schools

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 16.—School finances and School Costs for Ellwood City will be the theme for the next few installments of Supt. W. Ray Smith's Survey Report of the Ellwood City Schools, appearing here. It is an opportunity for the tax payers to see how their money is being spent as compared with other school districts.

School Finances And School Costs For Ellwood City

It is the purpose of this chapter to present the facts concerning the financial situation of the Ellwood City Schools. The discussion will be divided under four main headings:

1. Per pupil indebtedness compared with other cities.
2. Assessed valuation of taxable property per pupil compared with other cities.
3. Analysis of school expenditures 1924-1929.
4. Per pupil costs compared with other cities.

Each of these four divisions will present the facts concerning Ellwood City in relation to nine other school districts of western Pennsylvania which are as nearly as possible comparable to Ellwood City in size and in local school problems.

Per Pupil Indebtedness Compared With Other Districts

Chart 10 shows the Indebtedness per pupil in A. D. A. in Ellwood City and other selected districts for the year 1929. Ellwood City has ionsiderable srhool indebtedness but compared with other districts in Chart 10 it is next to the bottom of the list. The district seems to be in fairly good financial condition.

Chart 10

Midland—$286.87.
Sharon—$273.84.
New Castle—$242.60.
Beaver Falls—$232.31.

Ambridge—$165.28.
New Brighton—$154.51.
Rochester—$136.51.
Ellwood City—$116.36.
Butler—$84.42.

Assessed Valuation Of Taxable Property Per Pupil Compared With Other Cities

Chart 11 shows the Assessed Valuation of Taxable Property per pupil in A. D. A. in Ellwood City and other selected Districts for the year 1929.

The assessed valuation per pupil in Average Daily Attendance in Ellwood Compared with the assessed valuation per pupil in other districts in western Pennsylvania is very low as is shown in Chart 10. With such a low assessed valuation it is necessary to have a high mileage. The district is also handicapped in borrowing money with such a low valuation.

Chart 11

Butler—$6638.
New Castle—$5439.
Midland—$5248.
Sharon—$3666.
Beaver Falls—$3565.
Aliquippa—$3092.
New Brighton—$2838.
Rochester—$2786.
Ambridge—$2691.
Ellwood City—$2148.

Analysis Of School Expenditures 1924-1929

Chart 12 shows the Annual Expense for General Control per pupil in A. D. A. in Ellwood City. The small increase over the period of five years can be charged to the employment of a full time school board secretary and to increased salaries. The increase amounted to 86 cents per pupil in Ellwood City while the increase for the state amounted to 80 cents per pupil.

Alumni Trips Ellwood High In Fast Game

Lloyd Men Unable To Overcome Big Lead In First Half Of Contest

RESERVES TRIUMPH OVER SCHOLASTICS

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 16.—Despite the rally in the third and fourth quarter of a fast basketball game, Todd Lloyd's Ellwood High passers dropped their lid lifter to a good Alumni team, 24-19 at Lincoln gymnasium last night.

The Alumni aggregation was composed of the greatest basket ball players ever turned out at Ellwood High and their knowledge of the tricks of the game was apparent last night. It was rather the individual ability of a few of the players and their superior shooting that was the cause of their victory.

Fine defensive ability by both teams was shown in the initial period which closed with an 8-2 score in favor of the Alumni. Bill McKim, Alumni center, made the first score from the court. After a foul by Dudick, Willie Justine dribbled the length of the floor for another basket. Immediately following, Segedi sent the ball through the hoops from mid-floor and was also awarded a foul which he counted up. Kennedy and Zeigler each counted up a foul for their respective teams.

The second stanza was much the repetition of the first. The Alumni tightened their defense and held the Lloyd proteges to one point while they added six to their score which made it 14-3 at the half.

The high school players unlaunched their offensive at the resumption of rivalries in the third quarter and outscored their rivals 10-8. After Kennedy nad made a free throw early in the period, Dudick accounted for the team's first basket from mid-floor. Another short shot made matters more interesting. The Alumni came back strong after this and registered three more baskets in rapid succession with Segedi, Justine and McKim being in the scoring roles. Following the last basket, Dudick accounted for another charity throw and Kennedy added a two pointer. Justine came to the fold again for the Alumni, escaping from his man to score again. Williard Foresythe repeated his act to make the score 22-13 in favor of the Alumni at the end of the third quarter.

In the final chapter the Alumni were held to two points while the High players accounted for 6, but insufficient to win the game. Barnes and Lasso added to their score with a foul apiece and the latter sunk a long shot from the left side of the court. On the next play Ursu was awarded two free throws and accounted for both which constituted the remainder of the scoring for the Alumni. A bucket of Cavalier ended the scoring for the blue and white also. Both teams resorted to long shots in the dying moments of the game, with the score 24-19 for the Alumni remaining intact.

Justine and McKim were the outstanding performers for the Alumni, each accrediting himself with four baskets. Segedi was close behind with three. Forsythe, and co-captains Dudick and Kennedy were the best bets for the blue and white.

In the preliminary the Ellwood Reserves nosed out a 12-10 victory over the Scholastics of this city. The contest was close and exciting to the final whistle. The Reserves held a margin over their opponents throughout the game. R. Latiano and Bunny played best for the Reserves and Marshall and Vanderillo for the Scholastics.

The Lineup:

Police Chief Gives Holiday Warning

In an opinion expressed today, Chief of Police C. C. Horner stated that he thought that it was a good time for those having money to spend in buying Christmas presents, to exercise some judgement in the handling of the same, in order that they might have it for the purpose desired and avoid having it stolen.

He also said "The ladies especially should pay strict attention to what they are doing with their pocketbooks while shopping. They should not lay it on the counter and then walk away, neither should they allow it to lie in their basket. All persons should avoid carrying large amounts of cash with them, because the fact that some one sees it in their possession is likely

Speaking of the fact that this is the time of year when there are those persons, who will take advantage of the desire of all to show the Christmas spirit and seek to put over some flimflam game on the unsuspecting public. The best thing to do, the chief said, was for all to refrain from patronizing in any way, any person, except some one they know or have a satisfactory knowledge of.

The chief's warning to the merchants of the city is to refuse to cash all checks, except those of persons with whom they are acquainted or have a satisfactory report on. This is also the season, when the bogus check passer gets very busy.

Boyish Prank Almost Causes Serious Trouble

Match Is Used In Setting Fire To Window Trimmings Of Store

What was evidently a boyish prank, without thought of the possible serious results that might have followed, occurred last night at the store of William James, 1410 Blaine street.

Mr. James on opening up his store this morning, found that part of the paper advertising window decorations had been burned and only the fact that for some unknown reason, the paper on the floor of the window had not caught on fire from the upper decoration, was all that prevented a serious fire with possible loss of life on the part of the members of the James family, who reside upstairs.

The fire was started in the window directly in front of the only exit from the upstairs to the outside. In order to get outside the members of the family would have been compelled to come out this doorway into the store directly back of the window, which would have been the center of the fire, in an effort to get outside.

Investigation by the police this morning resulted in finding that some six weeks ago, a bunch of boys of the district had made a hole in the window with an air rifle. It was within reach of a good sized boy. A match was evidently lighted and thrust through this very small hole, and set fire to some of the paper decorations. About half burned and fell to the bottom of the window but fortunately did not ignite the paper on the bottom of the window.

Chief of Police C. C. Horner stated this morning that there were a number of boys in the district who had been committing depredations in recent weeks and that if it is not stopped some will be brought in and subjected to heavy fines or turned over to J. M. Dunlap, juvenile court officer.

State Government Departments Show Rapid Expansion

(From News Bureau (State Capital))

HARRISBURG, Rec. 16.—Decision to transfer the department of forests and waters from the main capitol to a downtown office building demonstrates how rapidly departments of the state government expand once they have been created. The removal of the forestry department was made necessary to provide more quarters for the department of revenue.

State departments are created and expand more rapidly than the legislatrue provides permanent office accommodations. At the present time there are five temporary and three permanent buildings in capitol park in addition to the main building. In addition some branches of the government are housed in private office buildings in the business section of Harrisburg.

The revenue department is the youngest and one of the largest departments on Capitol Hill. It was authorized by the general assembly a few years back to have charge of all revenue collections. Previous to its establishment most of the revenue was collected by the auditor general and the highway department.

When the revenue department began to function it took over the bureau of motor vehicles and all persons in the auditor general's department who had charge of collections. Since that time the department has been expanded. It occupies four of the five temporary structures with the liquid fuel tax and automobile divisions. The main offices of the department are in the capitol.

Expansion of the forces of the governor's offices have made it necessary for the state treasury to move some of its bureaus into the old state library and museum building. This structure was vacated by the library when the new education building was occupied a few months ago.

The auditor general's department now has as many employes on its roster as it did before the revenue department was created.

Extension of other departments in recent years has gone on accordingly. Teh highway department occupies considerable space in the new north office building yet quarters had to be obtained in a private structure for the headquarters staffs of two district offices.

The quarters of the department of labor and industry are too small to accommodate the entire personnel of the department. One bureau of the department is in a private office building in the business section of the city and the state workmen's insurance fund, attached to the department, occupies offices outside Capitol Park.

1,500,000 CARE FOR ILL IN U. S. 7,000 HOSPITALS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—There are enough doctors, dentists, nurses, hospital orderlies and others engaged in caring for the health of United States citizens to populate a city as large as Detroit—the fourth largest in this country.

A five year survey by the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care of the health and medical facilities in this country revealed today that approximately 1,500,000 are occupied in the care of the ill in the United States alone. Activities range from those of the skilled specialist to those of the midwife.

This vast army could be adequately housed in their imaginary city if all the buildings devoted to health and medical activity were brought together. There are 7,000 hospitals in the United States and the number of hospital beds has increased from 421,000 in 1909 to 890,000 in 1928.

Besides hospitals, there are nurses' homes, medical school buildings, clinics, drug plants and similar facilities.

McClendon Says He Accidentally Shot H. Daniels

Claims He Did Not Know Revolver Was Loaded When It Was Discharged

CASE IS NOW IN HANDS OF THE JURY

The case of Leroy McClendon, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Hasty Daniels, went to the jury shortly before noon today. It was argued by Attorney Joseph McFate for the defendant and District Attorney John Powers for the Commonwealth. Judge James A. Chambers delivered a charge, in which he explained the law relating to charges of involuntary manslaughter. He also reviewed the evidence, which was conflicting in some respects.

In his own defense McClendon testified that he had known Hasty Daniels for three or four months. He said that they had been good friends and never had a word about anything.

He claimed that James Marshall and Chick Perrett had come to his garage and asked him if he wanted to sell his gun. He replied that he did and went upstairs over his garage to get it. He believed that it was unloaded. Marshall, after examining the gun said it was too big.

Marshall had just returned it to the witness and he was snapping the hammer when it went off. Hasty Daniels was coming around the corner of the garage at the time and the bullet struck him. He had done everything possible for Daniels and assisted in having him sent to the hospital.

Mrs. Jack Marso told of going to the garage to see her husband. She had seen Marshall and Perrett there. She had met Hasty Daniels as she was leaving. He was coming around the corner of the building carrying a bucket. She had barely reached Moravia street, a short distance away, when she heard a shot. She did not return to the scene of the shooting.

Jacob Daniels, of Sciota street, an uncle of Hasty Daniels, testified he was sitting in his home the evening of the shooting and hearing a shot, and then a voice crying, which he recognized as that of his nephew, he went to the garage and found Hasty lying across the entrance to the garage. McClendon was taking off his shoes.

He had asked Hasty about the affair and Hasty had informed him that he and McClendon did not have any trouble.

Silk Truck Is Heldup, Cargo Worth $30,000

Six Masked Bandits Hi-Jack Silk Truck And Kidnap Driver And Guard

(International News Service)

LANGHORNE, Pa., Dec. 16.—Forcing the driver and a guard into an automobile, in which they carried them to Philadelphia before dumping them out, six masked bandits today held up a silk truck of the Lavine Express Company, of Trenton, N. J., and fled with its $30,000 cargo.

It was the second time the company had been hijacked within a week. Police expressed belief the same bandit gang was responsible.

Theodore Wisaunki, 28, of Trenton, the driver, and Daniel Niccio, 29, also af Trenton, the guard, told officers the bandits drew alongside the truck near here, flourished guns and forced them to leave the truck and get in the bandit car, which sped off toward Philadelphia, near where they were thrown out. Three of the bandits, taking charge of the truck, which was bound for Philadelphia, drove off.

Trophy Presented To DeHart A. C. At Reception Tuesday

Colored Football Team City-County League Champions, Is Honored

The DeHart A. C. colored, champions of the New Castle All-District tackle, said a few words. The league were tendered a fine reception last night at the Elm Street Y. W. C. A. in recognition of their work during the past grid season. About fifty attended.

A delicious luncheon preceded the speaking end of the evening. Earl Webber was toastmaster of the event. The speakers were—Tully Caiazza, organizer of the league who also presented the DeHart A. C. with a handsome silver trophy cup for their championship efforts. Mr. Caiazzo was also donor of the cup.

Section Three Race Starts Jan. 5

New Castle Opens Section Three Fight With Beaver Falls Here, January 5

New Castle opens with Scott high Friday on the Section Three High School basketball title will start. To be exact, the division opens January 5, with Beaver Falls meeting New Castle here. Two other games will also be played in the circuit.

Strong Section

Section Three is rated one of the strongest sections in the W. P. I. A. L. due to the strength of the teams which constitute the division. New Castle, Beaver Falls, Butler, New Brighton, Ellwood City and Rochester compose this section. To pick the winner at this stage would be just like trying to pick the smallest pea out of a bushel.

All six teams have been training for the past several weeks. Most of the teams will play one or two pre-league encounters before playing any league tilts. New Castle opens with Scott high Friday at George Washington junior high.

The Red and Black quintet plays five league games at home and five abroad. Starting with Beaver Falls here, New Castle will next play here January 15, meeting New Brighton. January 22, Rochester will invade this city and Ellwood City is the fourth home league opponent, February 5. In the final league fracas of the season for New Castle, Butler travels here for a contest. The Section Three race closes February 29.

Then if there happens to be a deadlock in the circuit the deciding game will be played at Pitt or on some other neutral floor. The New Castle schedule in Section Three follows:

January 5, Beaver Falls at New Castle.
January 8, New Castle at Ellwood City.
January 15, New Brighton at New Castle.
January 22, Rochester at New Castle.
January 26, New Castle at Butler.
February 2, New Castle at Beaver Falls.
February 5, Ellwood City at New Castle.
February 12, New Castle at New Brighton.
February 19, New Castle at Rochester.
February 29, Butler at New Castle.

Almost as completely as Lou Gehrig dominated the offensive department of the 1931 baseball season in the American circuit, Moses Grove got away with the hurling honors. Official statistics released today show he won the most victories, 31; had the best winning percentage, .886; tied with Wes Ferrell for the honor of pitching the most complete games, 27; faced the most batsmen, 1,088; struck out the most batsmen, 175; made the lowest earned run average, 2.05 and was second in number of innings hurled, pitching only two less than his teammate, George Walhberg.

Jockey George Elston who rode 58 winners during the northern racing season, captured the honors at Jefferson park, New Orleans, yesterday when he placed five mounts in the money. He scored with two winners. Beauty Secret in the curtain raiser and Banal Girl in the second; placed second with Loop in the fifth, third abroad Crazy Coot in the fourth and third up on Draha in the fourth.

Since the resignation of Chick Meehan of New York U where he reigned as head football coach the air has been filled with rumor and the latest report anent his successor comes today. The report says that Benny Friedman, Michigan All-American quarterback and who was assistant backfield coach at Yale during the past season is considered as a probable new coach for New York U. Andy Kerr, Colgate, Glenn Warner, Stanford and Burt Ingwerson, late of Iowa, have also been mentioned as probable choices.

After a week's rest, Tulane's Green Wave has started intensive practice for the New Year's game with Southern California, but without the services of Jerry Dalrymple, All-American end. He was allowed to leave the hospital at New Orleans, Tuesday, but his physicians ordered several more days of rest in the hope that his bruised kidney, suffered in the Washington State game would heal. Fear was expressed today by Tulane officials that Dalrymple may not be able to go in the New Year's day contest.

George Kelly, Philadelphia youngster, took a firmer grip on second place yesterday in the spectacular shooting of the world pocket billiard tournament. He scored a 125 to 25 victory over Frank Taberski of Schenectady in 12 innings. His win, the seventh, in nine starts followed Spencer Livsey's 125 to 86 win over Al Miller of Racine, Wis. Kelly after two innings of safety, stepped toward victory with a seven ball cobbination which was successful under stress. Taberski had not left him close to the lower rail. Kelly shot off the two cushions in the upper triangle and banged into the balls to send the two-ball into the side. He followed through with a run of 22.

Eight head of horses owned by J. J. Mooney of Peninsular Farm, Freemont, were offered yesterday at public auction in Chicago. In the list was Donald Belwin, 2:05 1-4, with a record of eight consecutive victories on the western tracks late this year. A high class trotter, Donald Belwin was said to have been sought after by prospective buyers in all parts of the country. Most of the horses in the string are colts which were bred and foaled at Mooney's farm.

Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech today denied a report that Chick Meehan is headed for the coaching berth at the Plaid institution. "We are not interested in a new head coach at this time." Overend said the grid coaching setup at Tech is very likely to be about the same as during the late season. "Judge Steffen, we sincerely hope, will remain with us, although possibly in a somewhat lesser capacity than heretofore" said Overend in Pittsburgh.

Death played havoc during the year 1931 with famous sport figures. Baseball was particularly hard hit in the deaths of Ban Johnson, Ernest Barnard, Gery Herrman, C. A. Comiskey and Sam Dreyfus. Football lost Knute Rockne and yachting's famous Sir Thomas Lipton passed away.

Future of Sid Wood, Jr., as an international net player has become the subject of widespread debate in tennis circles with indications he would rally considerable support as a result of his difference with Sam Hardy, Davis cup team. Vincent Richards was among the first to rush to Wood's defense although he declined to be drawn into the fuss over Davis cup tactics. "I certainly have not have changed my opinion that Wood is America's most promising player. I believe he should be kept on the Davis Cup team" he said in Gotham. Bill Tilden remarked in Jackson, Mich., that Wood is "one of the first three ranking tennis players in the country. "He said he preferred to remain out of the controversy. "It is up to them to settle it but I think both are working in the same interest for the return of the cup. Hardy is one of my best friends in the sport and Wood is one of the most promising" said Big Bill.

Changes in the rules regarding kickoff, forward pass intereference and the return of the old fumble are contained in suggestions made to Burton Ingwerson, chairman of the rules committee of the American Coaches association, according to reports from Iowa City, Ia. He said that the suggestions indicated 1932 football rules would contain definite regulation of forward pass interference and a change in the kickoff. The list of suggestions for the proposed changes will be submitted at the coaches meeting in New York, December 29.

Fritz Cirsler will remain as athletic director at the University of Minnesota...Hal Chase, former major league baseball star, was injured in an auto crash yesterday at Tucson, Ariz....Chicago has offered Max Schmeling $200,000 to meet Mickey Walker in a bout for the needy.... The Navy in studying next season's problem gave tacit approval to proselyting prep school grid stars to aid them in football, according to Annapolis reports. The entire coaching staff was retained.....Robert Morrison, Pittsburgh, defending champion, won the quality medal Tuesday in the members tournament at the Pinehurst Country club. He shot a 75.

Wisconsin Trips Pitt Basketeers

Pitt Panthers Open Western Invasion With Defeat 30 To 29 At Wisconsin

(International News Service)

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 16.—Suffering the pangs of an unexpected defeat in the final minutes of play, Pitt's basketeers rested here today before continuing their westward jaunt.

Wisconsin's Badgers crashed through to a 30 to 29 victory after trailing the Panthers 15 to 17 at the half.

With only a few minutes to play, Ochsenhirt flipped two throws to Wrobleski who popped in a field goal to make the score 23-all. The ball had just been put into play again when "Marv" Steen, diminutive Badger forward, dropped one through the bucket as a whistle blew.

The Badgers left the floor but officials ruled there were still 12 seconds of play and that the blast was only time out for Pitt. The Panthers got a free shot on the technical foul for Wisconsin's haste to leave. Lawry made good but the game was over.

New Castle Trims All Star Quint, 25-13

High School Cagers Are Victorious In Practice Game Tuesday Night

Red And Black Team Makes Fair Showing—Open With Scott Friday

Victory No. 1 was chalked up by the New Castle high school basketball team Tuesday night on the George Washington junior high school floor when the Red and Black passers defeated the New Castle All Stars, 25-13 in a practice game. In defeating the Stars the high school team showed up well at times but in many instances it appeared ragged.

Coach Bridenbaugh started Andy Lasky at center, Bus Reiber and Nick Uram at guards and John Teplico and John Uram at forwards. The All Stars were composed of Dave Vago at center, James Shaffer and John Hill at forwards and Luke Rowe and Bud Hanlon at guards. Using the new system created by Dr. Carlson of Pitt, New Castle was held to a 3-3 tie in the first quarter.

In the second quarter the varsity five of Senior high let loose with a volley of shots that soon gave them a lead over the Stars. The half ended 11-5. The All Stars failed to score a point in the third quarter which ended 15-5. The final score was 25-13.

At certain times the New Castle team looked impressive and at other times it failed to look good. At the start of the game the defense was too open and the Stars were getting through the New Castle team with ease. Then the high school boys throughout the game took plenty of shots at the hoops without much luck.

The game was played merely to give the lads an opportunity to get together.

Only two more days remain until the local team opens the season meeting Scott, Friday night on the George Washington floor. The game starts at 8:00 o'clock. This afternoon the Red and Black jerseyed boys will go through another strenuous drill at George Washington floor. Practices will come to a close Thursday afternoon.

CANNOT TRAP RACCOON NOW

Other Fur Bearing Animals Can Be Trapped, However, Coen Says

Frank Coen, game protector for Lawrence county, today issued a warning to trappers. Raccoon cannot be trapped now, the season having come to a close December 15, the game protector said. The trapping season for other fur bearing animals, however, will not expire until March 1. The reason for the ending of the raccoon trapping season is that it came in earlier this year, October 15.

Report Lawrence County Deer Shot

Frank Coen, Lawrence country's game protector today requested hunters who shot deer in Lawrence county to make a report to him as soon as possible as the state game commission is compiling a report of deer killed in the state. "There were about 30 head in Lawrence county. Several were killed and I would appreciate an early report from the hunters who killed them" said Coen who is convalescing after an appendix operation.

Season For Deer, Bear At An End

Big game hunting in Pennsylvania passed out for 1931 yesterday and it is probable that the number of deer killed will be amazing when all the reports are turned in. At the start of the season, one game official said he hoped that "75,000 deer would be killed." Apparently very few veteran hunters returned without at least a doe. Few bears have been got, according to reports. The season lasted from December 1-15, inclusive.

Colonel Ruppert And Babe Ruth Will Play Contract, Not Bridge

Yankee Star Slugger May Use Approach-Force System On His Owner

Ruppert Will Probably Not Over-Bid His Hand With $80,000 Per Year

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—In these days when debts take a Christmas holiday in August and Colonel Jake Ruppert of the New York Yankees says no ball player is worth $80,000 per year, coming to the defense of Babe Ruth is like standing on a bass drum.

But official figures issued today by the American League show that baseball's financial wizard is still a gent very much feared by the hurling stars. His legs may be no attraction to Earl Carroll but about his batting arm no mistake can be made.

Lou Gehrig set a new American League record in 1931 for a batting in runs, the Yankees' first baseman getting a total of 184, breaking his own mark of 175, made in 1927.

Ruth was in second place with 163 runs and the season marked the tenth year in which the great one has batted in 100 or more runs during a single season.

Feared by Pitchers

How the pitching gentry fears Ruth was the revelation that the Yankee slugger was walked 128 times in 1931. It was the tenth season Ruth received 100 or more bases on balls in a season. Further evidence that he is not slipping at the plate was hown by his 1931 record of striking out only 51 times. This was a new low mark for Babe.

These cold figures are elgant arguments on behalf of the great baseball figure, but when the time comes for Ruth to meet Ruppert in a salary show-down no man will be able to paint a picture of the exact worth of the big hitter.

This season Ruth is being better advised and following his instructions more carefully and intelligently than ever before in his fight against the depression and Ruppert. He hasn't broken into print with any bitter attacks against his August employer and has quietly but firmly refused to discuss his chances of maintaining his huge salary.

When Ruppert announced no player was worth $80,000 and hereafter no player would get it, Ruth merely went duck hunting.

The effect on this on Mr. Ruppert must have been annoying. Anyway, it caused Jake to repeat his ultimatum and Ruth's continued silence was even more subtle.

WAMPUM QUINTET TO PLAY TONIGHT

It was announced today that the Wampum Merchants will play the Troop F quintet at the Wampum Opera House floor tonight. The game starts at 8 o'clock. The Wampum team is reported to be fast.

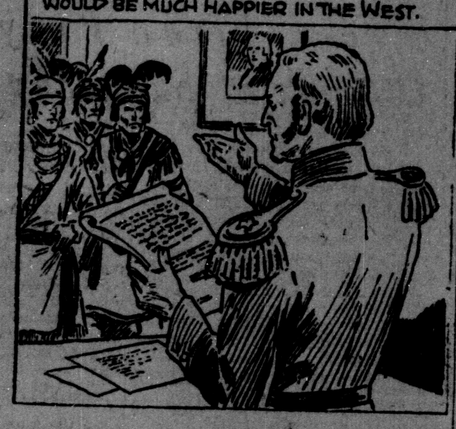
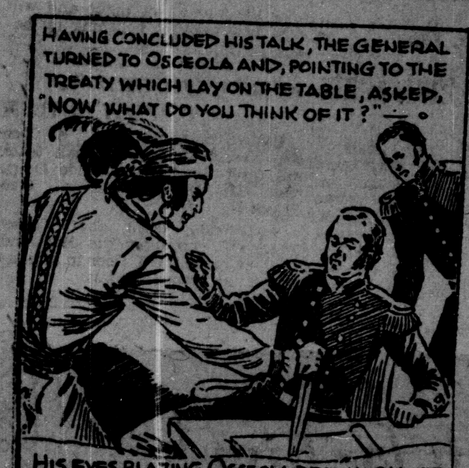
Vanishing Americans 3.—A Dramatic Interview

IN OCTOBER, 1834, THE TIME SET FOR THE REMOVAL OF THE SEMINOLES TO A WESTERN RESERVATION WAS NEAR AT HAND. GENERAL THOMPSON, THE GOVERNMENT AGENT, CALLED A CONFERENCE OF THE MOST PROMINENT SEMINOLES. THE INDIANS CAME, GLUM AND SILENT, LED BY THE FIERY YOUNG OSCEOLA. —•

THOMPSON MADE A LONG SPEECH IN WHICH HE POINTED OUT THE BENEFITS CONTAINED IN THE PAYNE'S LANDING TREATY AND TRIED TO CONVINCE THE SEMINOLES THAT THEY WOULD BE MUCH HAPPIER IN THE WEST.



HAVING CONCLUDED HIS TALK, THE GENERAL TURNED TO OSCEOLA AND, POINTING TO THE TREATY WHICH LAY ON THE TABLE, ASKED, "NOW WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT?" —•



HIS EYES BLAZING, OSCEOLA DREW HIS KNIFE AND WITH VICIOUS FORCE DROVE IT THROUGH THE DOCUMENT AND THE TOP OF THE TABLE! "THAT," HE REPLIED, "IS MY OPINION!"

THE CONFERENCE PROVED FRUITLESS. THE CHIEFS DEPARTED IN A DEFIANT MOOD, AND IT WAS PLAIN THAT THE SEMINOLES HAD NO INTENTION OF COMPLYING WITH THE TERMS OF THE ODIOUS TREATY. ©, 1931, BY J. CARROLL MANSFIELD.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Narrow Price Range In Stock Market

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Stocks swung nervously through a narrow range of prices this morning, the whole list pushing ahead moderately at the outset and reacting under selling pressure in the second hour.

In the Wall Street brokerage houses considerable interest was displayed in the stock exchange's voluminous report on the short interest outstanding in the active stocks on November 30. On that date the short interest was 3,745,642, in increase of nearly 1,500,000 shares since October 7. United States Steel, American Telephone and General Motors sagged in that period under heavy short selling, United States Steel carrying a short interest of 332,387 shares and General Motors about 400,000 shares.

The industrials and utilities dropped about a point on the average from the opening level, and losses in some of the favorites were larger. United States Steel started the session at 41⅜ and fell off to 39½ under persistent selling. American Tel and Tel in the same period dropped off 3 points from its opening price of 123⅝. American Can, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem Steel and Eastman Kodak were under pressure. Atchison led the reaction in the rails and fell off to a new low at 82, down 2½.

IS PEPPER MARTIN STILL POPULAR?

Here's your answer. The St. Louis Cardinal outfielder who electrified baseball fans by his brilliant play during the world series, looks over his daily mail. It comes daily like this.

Alleged Drunken Driving Case Up

The case of Sam Delisseo, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, was taken up for trial before Judge R. L. Hildebrand, at court this forenoon. Delisseo was arrested on the New Castle-Beaver road by Constable Raymond Talley of Wampum on September 6.

The case of Harry Layton, charged with sodomy, was taken up before Judge James A. Chambers.

LIVE-AT-HOME PROGRAM

CHILDRESS, Tex. Dec. 16.—Should farmers in this section of the country desire loans from the local banks they must follow a diversified system of farming, according to notice just issued. "From our viewpoint" the banks stated, "it behooves every farmer to grow his food and feed at home . . . It is our seasoned judgment that harder times are ahead unless a live-at-home program is followed."

Forty Present At Y. W. C. A. Meeting

Supper Meeting Enjoyed By Board, Committees, Staff Last Evening

A short program of speakers was enjoyed by forty some members of the board, committees and staff of the local Young Women's Christian Association Tuesday evening.

They met for supper in the Association building at six o'clock. Aside from a social event the meeting was for the purpose of making the group of women better acquainted with two prominent departments—the Girl Reserve and Friendly Service. The Friendly Service department, in charge of Miss Emma Moore, International Institute executive, is something new in the local Association. I has been operated just six weeks but already has achieved real results.

Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser, chairman of the Friendly Service committee, told what the department plans to do in the future. Miss Emma Moore gave a report of the work done since it's inauguration.

Descriptions of the various features being stressed in the Girl Reserve clubs were given by the following representatives: Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, Miss Martha Smith, Miss Virginia Duff, Miss Margaret Tucker, Miss Dorothy Long, Miss Anna Taylor, Miss Marian Wilson.

TWO VACANCIES ON POLICE FORCE

There are no vacancies in the city department of fire according to Charles H. Lynn, fire chief, but there are two vacancies in the department of police. Twenty five persons took the mental test for possible vacancies in the fire department when the board held the hearing Monday in city hall. There is a list of police eligibles but it is not probable the two vacancies acted upon until the new administration is seated.

Duquesne Team Here Friday To Battle Saints

Coach "Chick" Davies Will Bring Duquesne Passers To New Castle For Game

Coach "Chick" Davies will bundle his Duquesne university varsity and freshman teams into coaches and hustle them out to New Castle Friday night to oppose the St. Mary's varsity and reserves. The preliminary game will start at 7:30 o'clock. The scene of the battles will be St. Mary's auditorium.

The Saints gave the Dukes of Dukedom a fine game here last year and Coach Arnold "Fiz" Fraser is grooming his charges for a tough battle Friday night. The Dukes will be without the services of "Ganzy" Benedict, who has graduated. The Dukes will be good. They have been very successful in their pre-season games.

Business Manager "Joe" Travers is busy arranging for a reception for the Dukes following the game. There will be plenty of eats for everybody, it is understood.

The Saints have hit their stride now and may upset the smartly coached Duke machine. "Chick" Davies, former New Castle boy, handles the reins at Duquesne and has turned out some crackerjack teams, and this year is no exception.

The Duke freshies wanted to make the trip to New Castle, so Business Manager Travers got busy and secured the St. Mary's Reserves for the Pittsburghers. A couple of good floor games can be expected.

Germany Is Theme Of Reserve Meeting

Miss Elizabeth Stewart Of Westminster Speaks To Franklin Girls

"Preparation for marriage takes most of the spare time of school girls in Germany," Miss Elizabeth Stewart, a member of the Westminster College faculty, in a talk before a crowd of Girl Reserve Club members of Benjamin Franklin junior high school Tuesday evening, told many interesting facts of life in Germany.

Miss Stewart, who has lived in Germany, told of the girls' school life, their limited activities before the war, their interests, etc. She said that making table linen and bedding occupied most of their spare time, for they had to have a complete supply when entering into marriage. The supply must last for a year, as most of the washing is done on several big wash days once a year.

"Germany" was the theme of the Girl Reserve meeting, and it was one of the nicest the club has ever had. A number of faculty members were special guests. The program was carried out the same as recently announced, with the addition of a song by Edyce Davenport.

After a splendid program of songs, skits, etc., the meeting was concluded by a display of pictures. As the girls left the auditorium they were served with German cakes by Miss Evea Coulter and her staff of advisors.

Jap Troops Are Being Rushed To New Battle Front

Detachment Of Japanese Soldiers Sent To Newchwang To Halt Chinese Threat

MEAGER FORCES ARE IN FIELD

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service)

MUKDEN, Dec. 16.—A few hours after serious fighting broke out today between Japanese troops and Chinese irregulars near Tiehling, north of here, resulting in several deaths for both sides, a large detachment of Japanese troops was rushed to Newchwang as the entire area south of here was threatened by extensive Chinese movements.

Meager Forces

The Japanese troops were hurried from the garrison at Liaoyang to support the now meager forces protecting Newchwang in the face of the approach of 3,000 Chinese soldiers moving on the city along the Peiping-Mukden railway branch.

The Chinese troops occupied Tienchwangtai on their march.

It was pointed out by observers that the new developments to the south would necessitate quick and effective action, since the sector was within easy striking distance of Chin-Chow, a few miles to the west.

McGILL P. T. A. HOLDS MEETING

Mrs. E. B. Russell Of New Wilmington Is The Guest Speaker Tuesday

Regular monthly meeting of the Arthur McGill school Parent-Teachers association was held Tuesday afternoon in the school with a good attendance of the members.

Mrs. H. N. Drio, the president, presided.

Reports of the secretary, Mrs. G. W. Thomas, and the treasurer, Miss Margaret Reed, were received and approved.

Mrs. V. W. Hoye then read the review of the November Child Welfare magazine, which had been prepared by Mrs. M. R. Hornung, who was unable to be present. The December review of the magazine was presented by Mrs. H. Hillier Hoagland.

A group of girls of the upper grades of the school presented some Christmas carols. In the first presentation of a carol, the girls, all in white, appeared on the stage in the formation of a cross. The stage setting was also in keeping with the selection and the season of the year, including a number of pine trees and a representation of the sky and stars at the birth of Christ. In this number Miss Margaret Preston was director and Mrs. J. L. Reed accompanist. In the second carol presented, Miss Preston both directed and acted as accompanist.

The girls of this group were Kathryn Veach, Clare Bell Clark, Bernice Klink, Harriet Hughes, Jean Waddington, Anna Grace Richards, Jane Haven, Helen Urmson, Jane Rhodes, Lois Leddy, Ruth Cartwright, Suzanne Flick.

Featuring the afternoon's program was the presenting of an original Christmas legend in verse by Mrs. E. B. Russell of New Wilmington.

Not only was the legend entitled "The Story of a Boy's Heart" wonderful in inception but its presentation in verse by Mrs. Russell, who is responsible for its composition, was of such a character as to add much to its impression on the audience. It centered about a Jewish boy named David and was most delightfully presented.

At the close of the afternoon, carols were again sung by the group of girls and thoroughly enjoyed by the group present.
